PM asks SSF to ensure people's access to VVIPs

UNB, Dhaka

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina yesterday asked the Special Security Force (SSF) to ensure that the people are not deprived of access to public representatives for security reasons.

"You will provide security, but don't isolate the public representatives from the contact of people in the name of ensuring security", she said at the 25th Raising Ceremony of the SSF at the Officers' Mess in the city's Tejgaon.

Hasina reminded the elite force that the prime minister of the country is also a public representative and came to the power for five years with the people's mandate and will again go to the people for seeking their mandate after the tenure ends.

She said the SSF members should handle the people carefully so the VVIPs are not kept away from the people. Even a poor man should be allowed to meet the prime minister or other VVIPs, she said.

"Make it sure that nobody gets hurt by your (SSF) attitude."

Hasina said a leader or a public representative will have nothing if he or she loses the contacts with the mass people. "This is very painful for a leader."

The SSF has to pay equal attention to everyone, she noted. "One might not be well dressed, but that person may come to me for a serious matter, need to talk to me and that person is my voter." And voters always get priority to her, as she is leader of the mass people, she said.

"I know you are doing a very tough job, but you must not show negligence to the people," the prime minister advised the SSF personnel. She asked them to maintain good relation, close coordination, and contacts with other associated agencies to ensure foolproof security for the VVIPs.

The premier further advised the SSF members to maintain good character, strict discipline, sharp intelligence, honesty, and tolerance alongside developing professional skills.

SSF Director General Maj Gen Mian Mohammad Joynul Abedin gave the welcome address.

Stricter UK visa
rules on cards

DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

The British government has set out plans for stricter visa criteria for applicants who want to stay in the UK, and the new rules would break the link between immigrants coming to work in the UK and settling there permanently.

A statement issued yesterday by the British High Commission in Dhaka reads, "Migrants coming to the UK to work on temporary visas will no longer be able to apply for settlement."

The UK government's proposals, announced in London on June 9, are to implement reforms in their immigration system to reduce the levels to more sustainable levels.

The UK government is re-classifying the visa titles as either "temporary" or "permanent". "We intend to break the automatic link between immigrants coming to the UK to work and settling here permanently", said Immigration Minister Damian Green.

"Settlement has become almost automatic for those who choose to stay. This needs to change. The immigration system has got to be made to work properly. We want the brightest and best workers to come to the UK, make a strong contribution to our economy while they are here, and then return home," Green added.

Under the current system, many workers are allowed to apply to stay in the UK permanently.
