CHARGE SHEETS OF 10-TRUCK ARMS HAUL CASES

Babar, Nizami among 11 new accused

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Ctg

Charges have been pressed against 11 new suspects including former state minister for home Lutfozzaman Babar and Jamaat-e-Islami chief Motiur Rahman Nizami in two cases filed in connection with the 10-truck arms haul in Chittagong in 2004.

The arms produced in Chinese factory Norinco were to be transported to India for Assamese separatist group United Liberation Front of Asom (ULFA), Muniruzzaman Chowdhury, investigation officer of the two cases, told reporters yesterday after submitting two supplementary charge sheets.

Muniruzzaman, senior assistant superintendent of the Criminal Investigation Department, handed over the charge sheets to Md Mainuddin, assistant commissioner (Prosecution) of Chittagong Metropolitan Police, at the latter's office at about 5:30pm.

Two cases were filed -- one for smuggling firearms and the other under the arms act -- a day after ten truckloads of

Mainuddin said the supplementary charge sheets would be sent to the Chief

CHANGES TO CHARTER JS body starts scrutiny of bill today

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The parliamentary standing committee on the law ministry today starts scrutiny of the constitution amendment bill placed in parliament on Saturday.

The bill proposes some major changes in the charter including scrapping of the provisions for caretaker government system for holding parliamentary elections.

"We want to invite BNP to the committee meeting. The prime minister also wants it. But we are not sure if BNP will respond to our call," chief of the House body Suranjit Sengupta told The Daily Star yesterday.

He said he is thinking of inviting BNP to send a delegation to the committee meeting to give their opinion on any issues including a new formula for caretaker government.

On Saturday, Suranjit met the premier at her

CONTROL OVER LOWER COURTS

No move to restore SC's authority

Govt seeks to retain power

SHAKHAWAT LITON

The hope for effective separation of the judiciary from the executive branch of the state seems to have waned as it is now clear that the upcoming constitutional amendment will not restore two related articles to their original 1972 positions.

The Supreme Court in a landmark verdict on the constitution's fifth amendment sought restoration of articles 115 and 116 to their original positions for a meaningful separation of the judiciary from executive branch.

But the constitutional amendment bill placed in the parliament on Saturday did not make any proposal to restore the two articles to their original positions, as the government seeks to retain its control over the lower judiciary, sources said.

Rather, the changes brought to these two articles by the constitution's fourth amendment and martial law proclamations are set to remain unchanged according to the proposals approved by the cabinet.

The bill was prepared in line with the recommendations of the parliamentary special committee on constitutional amendment.

Khaleda threatens to oust govt

UNB, Dhaka

BNP Chairperson Khaleda Zia last night threatened to bring down the government through movement for holding midterm election under a caretaker government.

The threat of the opposition leader came at a closed-door meeting with a group of senior engineers and agriculturists at her Gulshan office as part of her ongoing view exchange programmes with various professional groups.

Sources close to the meeting said Khaleda reiterated her party's call that the existing provision of the caretaker government in the constitution has to be sustained.

The unilateral government move for constitution amendment is not acceptable to her party, the BNP chief said.

Khaleda indicated that a tough anti-government

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina instantly refuted the allegation in parliament yesterday that most of the lawmakers from her party Awami League are afraid of discussing with her different problems of their constituencies.

"All lawmakers of my party are always in close contact with me. They can discuss with me any issue," said the AL president.
