

Indian PM urges leading role for UN

OUR CORRESPONDENT, New Delhi

Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh yesterday said time has come for the United Nations General Assembly to resume its global leadership role at a time when the world is in the throes of economic slowdown and faces terrorism and non-traditional security threats like piracy.

In a statement shortly before leaving for New York to attend the 66th session of the United Nations General Assembly, he said the world body "is meeting this year at a time when the world is faced with multiple challenges. The global economy is in the midst of an economic slowdown coupled with all its attendant problems, including inflationary pressures."

"More than ever before, it is imperative for all countries to act in concert to address these challenges. This is the time for United Nations to resume its global leadership role", the Prime Minister said.

India-Nepal quake toll crosses 100

AFP, Mangan

The death toll from the weekend earthquake in the Himalayas crossed 100 yesterday as rescue workers struggled to reach remote villages and helicopters airlifted the injured and stranded.

Sunday's 6.9-magnitude quake struck the border of India's northeastern state of Sikkim and Nepal, bringing destruction to towns and villages on both sides as well as in southern Tibet and the tiny kingdom of Bhutan.

From a helipad in Mangan in northern Sikkim, military and private helicopters flew regular sorties, taking food and medical supplies to outlying villages and bringing back injured survivors and a number of foreign tourists.

In the state capital Gangtok, 70 kilometres southeast of the epicentre, Chief Minister Pawan Chamling confirmed 68 deaths in Sikkim and said there was still no contact with a number of villages in the quake zone.

Rescue efforts began in earnest after emergency teams and relief workers spent two days battling heavy rains, damaged roads and landslides to reach the worst-affected areas.

SK Pradhan, the district magistrate of Chungtang, close to the epicentre, said he saw signs of badly damaged villages as he flew over the sparsely populated area.

"We could see bodies lying in the debris, but for now our priority is to evacuate the injured and then we will take stock of the dead," he said.

"We are still not able to contact many remote villages."

Doctors at Mangan district hospital said most of the seriously injured had badly crushed limbs and bodies after being caught in rockfalls or building collapses.

A company building a huge hydroelectric plant in Chungtang said 18 of its employees had been killed.

In Mangan, relatives of people living in and around the epicentre gathered in groups, sharing what little information they could glean about the fate of their family members.

Most had heard nothing from their families since the quake hit on Sunday evening.

In Nepal, eight people were killed and hundreds of homes destroyed or damaged in the east of the country, where rescuers faced the same problems as their Indian counterparts with rains and mudslides blocking routes to the affected areas.

Eighteen other people died in the Indian states of Bihar and West Bengal, while China's official Xinhua news agency said seven people had been killed in southern Tibet, near the border with Sikkim.

ALLEGED HAQQANI CONNECTION US slams Pakistan

AFP, Washington

The United States on Tuesday renewed blunt demands that Pakistan crack down on Haqqani militants based in the country, saying the network posed a serious threat to US forces in Afghanistan.

Defense Secretary Leon Panetta told reporters that Washington would "put as much pressure as possible on the Pakistanis to exercise control from their side of the border."

"We've continued to state that this cannot happen, we cannot have the Haqqanis coming across the border, attacking our forces, attacking Afghanistan...and then disappearing back into a safe haven. That is not tolerable," Panetta said.

He added: "I think they've heard the message, but we'll see." Panetta's comments reflect a tougher public US line in recent days amid growing frustration in President Barack Obama's administration over the role of the Haqqani network.

The stern warnings also coincide with increasingly strained relations with Pakistan, which was angered and embarrassed by a US raid in May that killed Osama bin Laden in Abbottabad.

The Americans blame the Haqqani network for a recent bombing attack that wounded 77 US troops at a base in Wardak province and for an elaborate assault on September 13 on the US embassy and NATO headquarters in Kabul.

Admiral Mike Mullen, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said at an earlier event Tuesday the presence of the Haqqani sanctuaries potentially jeopardized the outcome of the war.

"Without that (Pakistani action), we can't succeed in the overall effort," he said.

Mullen said Pakistan's ISI intelligence agency had to sever all ties with the Haqqani militants, who operate out of sanctuaries in the country's northwest.

"I think that the ISI has to make the decision to strategically disengage. The ISI has been doing this, supporting proxies for an extended period of time," he told an audience at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Gas leak near Mumbai kills four

AFP, Mumbai

A poisonous gas leak at a pharmaceutical factory in the western Indian state of Maharashtra killed four workers and left 11 sick, the company and police said yesterday.

Preliminary investigations suggested that hydrogen sulphide gas escaped from a pipeline late Tuesday at the Sequent Scientific factory in Boisar, 120 kilometres north of Mumbai.

"There was an accident at our Tarapur facility. The effects were contained last night but resulted in the sad demise of four workers and injuries to a few others," the company said in a statement to the Bombay Stock Exchange.

The factory has been closed since the accident.

Three managers at the plant have been held for questioning, while the state government and the Department of Industrial Safety and Health have started investigating.

Mighty typhoon Roke hits Japan

AFP, Tokyo

A powerful typhoon smashed into Japan yesterday and headed for the stricken Fukushima nuclear plant, where workers raced to protect buildings and reactors that are leaking radiation.

The storm, which was packing winds of up to 198 kilometres per hour, has killed at least five people and a million were initially warned to leave their homes over fears torrential rains could cause widespread flooding.

At around 7:00pm Typhoon Roke was centred 63 kilometres northwest of Tokyo, heading northeast -- towards the area that was devastated by a record earthquake and tsunami on March 11 that sparked nuclear meltdowns at Fukushima.

Hundreds of flights were cancelled, ferry and rail services were suspended and roads closed as the country prepared for the full impact of the storm.

Roke comes less than a month after another vicious typhoon barrelled through Japan, killing around 100 people in one of the deadliest storms the country has seen in decades and heaping more misery on the disaster-weary nation.

Five people have so far been found dead in central and western Japan in the latest calamity, NHK reported, while four people are missing including a boy who disappeared on his way home from primary school.

The broadcaster said 55 people had been injured as torrential rain battered some areas and caused flooding in others.

Prefectures across eastern Japan issued landslide warnings, telling people to stay away from areas at risk.

Around 450 flights were cancelled, grounding more than 45,000 passengers, Jiji Press reported.

East Japan Railway was suspending a number of services, including some bullet trains, but did not know how many passengers would be affected, a spokesman said.

Russia makes fresh proposal

Petrobranga Chairman Hussain Monsur however told The Daily Star that he did not receive any fresh offer from Gazprom.

"Gazprom had sent us an offer before the Eid holidays. If they send us a new offer, I am the first person to see it. But I have not seen it," he said yesterday.

The GTCL's on-going tender for gas compressors faced a long delay because Petrobranga slowed down the tender process for several months while promoting Gazprom's unsolicited offer. But Petrobranga's enthusiasm was watered down late last month when Gazprom's offer was opened.

The Russian company sought $ 297 million for the two compressors and $200 million more for drilling 10 gas wells in the existing national gas fields. In contrast, GTCL's tender drew an offer of $122 million from Korean Hyundai.

As a result of this price difference, Petrobranga was forced to backtrack from Gazprom's offer for now. At the same time, it cleared the GTCL to send its tender recommendation to the ADB for its concurrence to award the contract to Hyundai for setting up the two compressors in Ashuganj and Lengga. The recommendation was sent on September 14 and the authorities are expecting ADB's clearance within this month.

"The Gazprom proposal had many additional components which would have been useful for us in the long run. But since everybody wants the Hyundai compressors, we are going for that," said the Petrobranga chairman. "We are hoping that the ADB will soon give us its concurrence."

He added that Petrobranga would negotiate with Gazprom over its offer for drilling the 10 wells to reduce the cost. Gazprom's drilling offer seeks a cost more than double of that by Bangladesh Petroleum Exploration Company.

Petrobranga sought Gazprom's cooperation in drilling development wells in Titas, Rashidpur, Semutang, Begumganj, Shahbazpur and Sundarpur gas fields.

Poverty begins below 50 cents a day Says Indian govt

AFP, New Delhi

India's economic planning body has said any villager earning 50 cents a day is not poor and should not qualify for a government ration card -- a figure condemned by experts yesterday.

Those with a daily income of 25 rupees (50 cents) in villages and 32 rupees (65 cents) in cities should be ineligible for subsidised food and other supplies, the Planning Commission told India's Supreme Court.

Anyone earning above these levels would have enough funds for "food, education and health", the commission said in a submission to the court lodged on Tuesday.

The proposed new benchmarks, which have already been approved by Prime Minister Manmohan Singh's office, were condemned by poverty experts as unrealistic -- especially with India's soaring inflation.

"There is no way one person can feed and house himself on 32 rupees in a city for a day. This figure has no meaning for the common man," Anupama Datta, deputy head of the National Slum Dwellers Federation, told AFP.

While India boasts a burgeoning class of urban rich, hundreds of millions of people still face a lack of food, clean water and proper housing.
