CHT PEACE ACCORD Main provisions yet to be implemented

SHANTIMOY CHAKMA, Rangamati

Fourteen years after the signing of THE Chittagong Hill Tracts (CHT) peace accord, the main clauses of the landmark treaty still remain unfulfilled.

The then Awami League government and Parbatty Chittagong Jana Sanghati Samity (PCJSS) signed the deal on December 2, 1997.

A total of 1,947 PCJSS members surrendered and handed over their arms and ammunition to the government in four phases as per the treaty.

According to a book published by the PCJSS on the eve of the 14th anniversary of the accord, the government is yet to declare the CHT as a special region or Jumma land for Jumma people. It has not brought any amendment or any changes into the laws concerned, resolved land dispute in the hills and fixed non-indigenous (Bangalees) permanent residents.

A voter list is yet to be prepared. Rules of business for preparing the voter list and holding elections to the CHT regional council and HDCs are yet to be enacted. The provision that the lone authority will be the three circle chiefs in issuing permanent resident certificates for hill

The hartal will have a negative effect on foreign direct investment, the statement reads.

The opposition has called the strike at a time

KHOKON'S ARREST

Parliamentary body unhappy

Criticises law enforcers for implicating him in false cases

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A parliamentary body yesterday severely criticised members of the law enforcement agencies for arresting BNP leader Khairul Kabir Khokon in "baseless" cases filed over the torching of a train and vandalism at the Narsingdi district commissioner's bungalow on November 2.

The filing of such baseless cases tarnishes the government's image, Mujib-ul-Haque Chunnu, a member of the committee, quoted two members of the parliamentary standing committee on the home ministry, including Mirza Azam, treasury bench whip, as saying at a meeting at the Jatiya Sangsad Bhaban.

The body also asked Home Minister Sahara Khatun, State Minister for Home Affairs Shamsul Haque Tuku and top police officials about the reasons behind the arrest of Khokon, meeting sources told The Daily Star.

Tuku then said it was better not to discuss an issue which was under investigation.
