A garbage dump by the people, for the people. This heap of garbage, occupying almost a side of a road at Rampura in the city, is not only interfering with the movement of pedestrians and vehicles on the road, but also creating an unhealthy environment for dwellers in the area. It is a classic example of the ignorance of locals, who dump their wastes here everyday, and the indifference of government officials who are responsible for keeping the city clean. This photo was taken yesterday.
