KARWAN BAZAR KITCHEN MARKET

Shifting sees fresh hurdle

DCC-North needs another year to complete 3 new wholesale markets

HELEMUL ALAM

Shifting of Karwan Bazar wholesale kitchen market to three new locations in the capital faces further delay as the concessionaries of three under-construction markets are going to miss this month's implementation deadline.

The last caretaker government had initiated a project in 2006 to construct 1,782 shops in three wholesale kitchen markets in Mohakhali, Jatrabari and Aminbazar to relocate the wholesale traders from bustling Karwan Bazar and relieve traffic congestion in the area.

The scheme now runs into a fresh hurdle as the government is reviewing a proposal of Dhaka North City Corporation (DNCC) to convert the Mohakhali kitchen market into its office.

"We have received the proposal and are considering it positively," Local Government Secretary Abu Alam Mohammad Shahid Khan told The Daily Star.

Completion of the project was due in June 2010, but the authorities had extended the deadline for two years.

An official of DNCC said the corporation has sought one more year to deliver the Tk331 crore scheme.

Project sources cited land dispute and slow disbursement of fund for the delay in the scheme.

REVIEW OF CHARGES Ghulam Azam's petition rejected

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Former Jamaat-e-Islami chief Ghulam Azam is facing trial for his role during the Liberation War, not for his political affiliation, observed the International Crimes Tribunal-1 while rejecting a petition on review of charges.

Ghulam Azam, considered by many as the symbol of war crimes during the Liberation War in 1971, was indicted on five charges based on 60 incidents of crimes against humanity on May 13.

"He is not being tried just only for his political affiliation; he is rather being tried for his role during the

Dhaka-Yangon direct flight gets govt nod

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The cabinet yesterday approved a proposal for signing a bilateral agreement with Myanmar on direct flight service between Dhaka and Yangon.

At present, there is no direct flight between the two neighbouring countries. Though an agreement was signed back in 1977 between the two countries on direct flight service, it could not be executed.

Once the agreement is signed, seven passenger and four cargo flights will fly between Dhaka-Yangon every week, Cabinet Secretary Mosharraf Hossain Bhuiyan told journalists after the cabinet meeting held in the Secretariat.

"Connectivity and trade between the two nations will be enhanced when the flight service will start. Both the countries will be benefited out of it," he said.

The government will send the proposal to Myanmar for its approval to begin the direct flight service. The agreement could be revised or rescinded after consultations between the two sides, said the cabinet secretary.

The proposal, placed by the aviation and tourism ministry, mentioned that Bangladesh Biman, GMG Airlines and United Airways, Myanmar Airlines and Airbagan may operate the flights.
