

FISH FAIR CALLS FOR HABITAT PROTECTION

NATIONAL Fisheries Week 2012 ended yesterday with a call to protect natural breeding grounds of fishes and create public awareness in this regard. Beginning on July 8 at the capital's Ramna Park, it displayed various local fishes such as Hilsa, Ruhi, Boal, Pabda, Shing, Rupchanda, Pangash and Prawn. Organised by the Department of Fisheries, a call was made from the fair for mass awareness during this rainy season in order to ensure pollution free environment so that fishes can lay eggs in the flood-prone areas. During the fair, formalin-free fishes were up for sale.

Photo: ANISUR RAHMAN

