

SCHOOL ON THE STREET

THIS hardly-ever-used street in Paribagh in the capital becomes a school to over 90 urchins six days a week. They used to roam the streets while their parents or parent went to work. But now, thanks to a non government organisation, they get to learn to read and write and do small math too. The organisation provides the children with books, pens, pencils, slates, chalk, and everything required for their study. There are about 100 organisations working with street children in Dhaka.
