HILL SLIDE IN CTG Narrow escape for 11 kids

SHAHADAT HOSSAIN, Ctg

Yesterday was another nice weekend for schoolkid Imran Hossain and his friends.

Around 10:30am, they were out playing cricket in a small open space adjacent to Wahabi Hill in the city's Kusumbagh Residential Area.

Two hours later, a sudden loud sound reverberated in the air and turned things into a mess.

Even before taking a glance at the origin of the sound, Imran along with his six friends started running for safety.

But within moments, three of them -- Imran, Yasin and Akbar -- found themselves under heaps of soil that slid off the hillside. Only their heads were above the soil.

"It nearly took my breath away and we started crying for help," said Imran, a second grader at Omar Gani Govt Primary School.

Hearing screams for help, locals rushed to the scene and rescued the three after making frantic efforts.

Talking to this correspondent yesterday afternoon, nine-year-old Imran said he could not believe that he was still alive. Fears lurked in his eyes.

Witnesses said there were four more boys who escaped unhurt while playing with tops. All the boys aged Following days of downpour, a few children were almost buried alive in a landslide at the bottom of Wahabia Hill at Lalkhan Bazar in Chittagong city yesterday. Luckily, they survived without a scratch. But the fire brigade and rescuers were not taking any chances. They kept on searching, inset, to see if they missed anyone under the mud.

EU gets Nobel Peace Prize

Praises, shocks follow

STAR REPORT

Praise, gratitude and shock have followed the news that the Nobel Peace Prize this year goes to the European Union.

Speaking shortly after the Nobel announcement in Oslo, European Commission president José Manuel Barroso, said he was honoured by the decision and that it was a reminder that even during the current crisis, "the EU is something very precious".

IMF foresees bright economic prospect

Urges Muhith to increase petroleum prices

REJAUL KARIM BYRON, from Tokyo

The mid-term future of Bangladesh's economy was bright as the country had stuck to the economic reform programme supported by the International Monetary Fund (IMF), a top official of the Washington-based lender said yesterday.

Masahiko Takeda, a deputy director of the IMF Asia and Pacific Department, said Bangladesh's economy was relatively more exposed to the European situation because of the country's textile industry, which is very important part of the economy and an export driver.

"So in that sense, Bangladesh's export growth has slowed markedly, and that has been a negative sort of drag on the economy. But at the same time, partly because of the economic reform efforts being made with the IMF's support, the economic conditions are improving gradually," he said.

Takeda said the main objective of the programme was to make room for the government to increase the development spending which would lay the foundation for medium-term sustained growth.

WB may release Padma fund early

meet bank's external panel in Tokyo*

REJAUL KARIM BYRON, from Tokyo

The World Bank panel, assigned to review the investigation into the Padma bridge graft allegation, may give the green signal to the bank for a speedy disbursement of fund if it initially finds Bangladesh's handling of the charge satisfactory.

The three-member panel of international experts, who are due to arrive in Dhaka tomorrow to assess the Anti-Corruption Commission inquiry, has been asked to submit a report within a month, finance ministry officials said.

The assurance of quick fund disbursement came at a meeting between the panel led by Luis Moreno Ocampo, a former chief prosecutor of the International Criminal Court, Finance Minister AMA Muhith and prime

REDRAWING CONSTITUENCY

EC lags behind polls roadmap

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Election Commission (EC) could not yet complete preliminary work for redrawing the boundaries of parliamentary constituencies, raising doubts if it would be able to have it done by December, the stipulated timeframe.

According to its roadmap announced on August 5, a draft list on redrawing the areas of 300 constituencies was to be prepared by September 15, and the EC was supposed to approve it in the same month.

But it could not complete the tasks within September. The delay almost made it certain that the EC will not be able to publish the draft list by October, complying with the stipulated timeframe.

As per the roadmap, the EC is to invite objections to its proposals on redrawing the boundaries and dispose of them by November to finalise the task by December.

Election Commissioner Shah Nawaz Thursday said they might need one more month to publish the draft list as it was a huge and sensitive task.

When his attention was drawn to the timeframe given in the roadmap, he said the work has been delayed a little. "However, it will not have any impact on the overall timeframe and we will be able to complete the entire task by December," he told The Daily Star.

Referring to talks with civil society personalities and senior journalists, Shah Nawaz said the EC would sit next week to proceed with its next course of action.

A diamond bigger than Earth?

REUTERS, London

Forget the diamond as big as the Ritz. This one's bigger than planet Earth. Orbiting a star that is visible to the naked eye, astronomers have discovered a planet twice the size of our own made largely out of diamond.

The rocky planet, called '55 Cancri e', orbits a sun-like star in the constellation

US VICE PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE

Biden, Ryan fight hard for a draw

CNN ONLINE

Vice President Joe Biden and Republican challenger Paul Ryan hit the campaign trail yesterday after a combative debate in which they challenged each other's facts and claims while offering starkly different visions for the direction the country should follow.

In the lone debate between the vice presidential contenders, Biden achieved his goal of bringing the fight to his GOP foe in battling Ryan to a draw, boosting the spirits of Democrats disheartened by President Barack Obama's lackluster performance in the first presidential debate last week.

Ryan, meanwhile, made a positive impression with his command of both domestic and foreign policy issues that showed him to be a formidable national candidate after a career of local congressional races in his native Wisconsin.

A snap CNN-ORC International poll showed voters who watched Thursday's debate narrowly favoured Ryan over Biden by 48%-44%, a statistically even result after GOP presidential challenger Mitt Romney scored a clear victory over Obama last week in their first of three debates.

Martha Raddatz of ABC News aggressively moderated the debate, challenging
