

Equal participation of women must in all sectors

JS Speaker tells rally

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Equal participation of women must be ensured in socio-economical, political and cultural activities to achieve the expected development of the country, said Abdul Hamid, Speaker of the parliament, yesterday.

Terming violence against women a social disease, he said necessary steps must be taken to make every woman aware of her rights and provide them with sufficient legal and economical security to end violence against women.

Hamid was addressing the inaugural session of 16-day long activism and token oath for eliminating violence against women, jointly organised at the South Plaza of the parliament by the government, the parliament and the UN agencies in Bangladesh. The activism started yesterday will go on across the country until December 11.

Deputy Leader of Parliament Syeda Sajeda Chowdhury stressed the need for ensuring women's access to information in order to stop gender-based violence.

UN Resident Coordinator Neal Walker said it is impossible to turn Bangladesh into a country of people with middle-income unless violence against women is eliminated.

The Speaker also administrated an oath taking ceremony where around one and a half dozen lawmakers, UN officials and development partners vowed not to commit violence against women and to protest the offence.

UNFPA Country Representative Arthur Erken and Spanish Ambassador Luis Tejada Chacon, among others, also spoke at the function.

Besides, different organisations, including Bangladesh Mahila Parishad, Brac, We Can Alliance to End Domestic Violence (an alliance of 550 NGOs), Steps Towards Development, and Dhaka Development Forum, will hold series of programmes for the campaign.

At a press conference in Jatiya Press Club yesterday, Bangladesh Mahila Parishad leaders claimed that a total of 4,854 incidents of violence against women had occurred in Bangladesh from January to October this year, said a press release.

10-TRUCK ARMS HAUL CASES 24 hand grenades went missing

Prosecution witness tells court

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Ctg

Twenty four hand grenades, present on the seizure list, were found missing when the 10-truck arms were being handed over to Chittagong Cantonment on April 3, 2004, the day after the seizure, said a prosecution witness yesterday.

As per the list, the arms to magazine ratio should have been 1:4. But 32 magazines were found having no corresponding arms. The witness stole the eight missing arms, accused the defence.

The witness, Ahadur Rahman, plaintiff of the 10-truck arms haul cases and the one to make the list, denied the allegation while being cross-examined before the Metropolitan Special Tribunal-1 Judge SM Mojibur Rahman in Chittagong.

The counsel of accused former National Security Intelligence director general Brig Gen (ret'd) Abdur Rahim also accused Ahadur of stealing two submachine guns and a magazine by keeping those off the list.

Ahadur, formerly an officer-in-charge of Karnaphuli Police Station, denied the allegation. He also said he had not mentioned Rahim's name in his earlier statement "due to the pressure of the then situation".

Two cases were filed -- one for smuggling firearms and the other under the arms act -- a day after the seizure at a jetty of Chittagong Urea Fertiliser Ltd in Chittagong.

RU CORRESPONDENT

An official of Rajshahi University along with some unidentified persons severely beat up a teacher of the university over a trivial matter on Sunday evening.

The injured teacher, who is an associate professor of the law and justice department, was admitted to Rajshahi Medical College Hospital. He was hit by bricks in the head and needed five stitches to his wounds.

Afsar Ali, deputy director of finance and accounts section of the university, along with about 7-8 others, attacked the victim in front of the teachers' quarters in Paschim Para on the campus, as, Afsar said, the teacher intentionally damaged 50 tomato plants in Afsar's vegetable patch in front of the quarters some days ago.

Afsar admitted making the attack and called the teacher "crazy", saying that the teacher had hurled abuse at him [Afsar] when he protested the incident.

The teacher denied the allegations of Afsar.

Protesting the incident, over a hundred students of the law and justice department staged demonstration in front of the residence of the vice chancellor on Sunday night and demanded immediate arrest of Afsar Ali.

Proctor Chowdhury Muhammad Zakaria assured the agitating students of taking punitive action against the official after investigation.
