

GM Quader for generating trust in investors' minds

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Commerce Minister GM Quader called for "generating confidence in the minds of the investors."

"The Bangladesh International Arbitration Centre (BIAC) would provide an alternate to the court system and generate confidence in the minds of investors, particularly the FDI," he said at a dialogue, Arbitration for Settlement of Business Disputes, organised by the BIAC in the capital on Saturday.

BIAC Chief Executive Dr Toufiq Ali highlighted the changes in the country's laws which have made mediation mandatory, increasing pending cases in courts.

BIAC provides training in arbitration and mediation, which will help entrepreneurs and those seeking alternates to long delays in courts, he added.

As Bangladesh depends on trade with the outside world for growth, it is important for it to comply with rules and regulations, stated Netherlands Ambassador Gerben de Jong.

PARDONING WAR CRIMES ACCUSED SCF condemns Turkish president's request

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Sector Commanders' Forum (SCF), a platform of sector commanders in the Liberation War, yesterday condemned Turkish President Abdullah Gul's recent letter to Bangladesh President and Prime Minister calling for "clemency" to the war crimes accused.

"Verdict of the trial of crimes against humanity is yet to be passed. In this circumstance, such a request is not only surprising but also regrettable," said a SCF statement signed by its acting secretary general Haroon Habib.

Such request is the outcome of the ignorance about the local laws, judiciary and the Liberation War of an independent country, it said.

"We think that the [war crimes] trial was being conducted following international standard and getting full support of Bangladeshi people," it added.

They urged the Turkish president not to pay heed over the propaganda against the trial and be respectful to the trial of the accused of the crimes against humanity charges.

Farmers in the country's Barind region are counting losses due to increased prices of agricultural inputs like fertiliser, seeds, pesticides, diesel and electricity, said lawmaker Fazle Hossain Badsha.

Depletion of groundwater in the region is also adding to miseries of the farmers, he said while addressing a rally on Rajshahi Water Development Board premises as the chief guest yesterday.

Badsha, also politburo member of Workers' Party of Bangladesh, demanded that the government give more priority to ensure interests of the farmers and provide them with the farm inputs at subsidised rates.

Rajshahi Rakkha Sangram Parishad

(RRSP) organised the rally to press home a 23-point demand, including implementation of North Rajshahi Irrigation Project, establishing an Agriculture University in the region, and reopening of Rajshahi Silk Mills under state management soon.

Badsha urged the government to make Bangabandhu Jamuna Multipurpose Bridge toll free for carrying agricultural products to other parts of the region.

Several hundred farmers from Rajshahi, Natore, Naogaon and Chapainawabganj attended the rally chaired by RRSP President Liakat Ali.

Buriganga's condition has "slightly" improved due to effective drives against polluters, claimed Environment and Forest Minister Dr Hasan Mahmud yesterday.

"The concentration of dissolved oxygen at most points of the river rose to 1.5 milligram per litre (mg/l), which was zero before 2009," he said. The optimum concentration for survival of aquatic life should be between 4.5 and 8 mg/l.

The minister was addressing a press conference, held to announce the AL-led grand alliance government's success in the last four years, in Bangladesh Secretariat.

Hasan said now 77 percent of the country's factories use effluent treatment plants while it was 30 percent before the government came to power. "A total of 542 cases were filed in the environment courts and over Tk 100 crore was realised in fines since 2009."

On the recent transfer of Mohammad Munir Chowdhury, serving as a director at the Department of Environment, Hasan said Munir had more important works like taking action against persons who use formalin in food.

Munir, transferred to the commerce ministry in mid-December before completion of his three-year tenure, played the key role in taking action against polluters and increasing revenue income from fines by over threefold since August 2010.

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Speakers expressed grief and shock at the death of Awami League leader Abdur Razzak and remembered his immense contribution during the Liberation War in a condolence meeting yesterday.

Abdur Razzak, one of the main organisers of the country's Liberation War, breathed his last at the age of 69 at a hospital in London on December 23 last year.

Bangladesh Shanti Parishad organised the meeting at the main auditorium of Bangladesh National Museum in the capital.

Speaking on the occasion, Workers' Party of Bangladesh President Rashed Khan Menon said Abdur Razzak was a role model for the country's future generation of politicians.

Nahim Razzak Sammu MP, elder son of late Razzak, said, "I have learned from my father that politics is not a popularity contest; politics means working to enrich the lives of the general people."

The spirit of the Liberation War that he [Razzak] ignited forty two years ago will continue to inspire the future generations to build a prosperous nation, he added.

Jatiya Samajtantrik Dal General Secretary Sharif Nurul Ambia said Abdur Razzak was a leader in every way.

"He treated every party worker with affection and maintained a personal attachment with his peers within his party and even with members of other political parties," Ambia said.

He was also remembered for his service in the party and government in different positions.

EMPOWERMENT PROJECTS Include challenged women entrepreneurs Discussion told

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Speakers at a roundtable discussion yesterday urged the Ministry of Women and Children Affairs to include women entrepreneurs with disabilities in their Tk 10 million fund allocation for women entrepreneurs' empowerment projects.

The government and NGOs should lend their support to initiate more projects that include active participation of women entrepreneurs with disabilities, they added.

The roundtable was organised by Access Bangladesh Foundation and ActionAid Bangladesh.

"Women entrepreneurs with disabilities would also feel more encouraged if the SME Foundation introduced the category of Best SME Woman Entrepreneur with Disabilities in their annual National SME Women Entrepreneurs Awards," suggested Managing Director of Access Bangladesh Foundation Albert Mollah in his key-note speech.

He also urged different ministries to reserve a 10 percent quota in all their training projects for the empowerment of women entrepreneurs with disabilities.

Tarik-Ul-Islam, secretary to the Ministry of Women and Children Affairs, said, "With appropriate support from the finance ministry, funds can be allocated for the empowerment of women with disabilities if a suitable project proposal is submitted."

Social activist Julian Francis, among others, also spoke at the discussion.
