Laying emphasis on maintaining chain of command, Hasina said senior army officials would have to present themselves to their superordinates as examples of morality, honesty and dutifulness.

She urged them to remain vigilant so that junior officers are not victimised by the propaganda of the vested quarters who want to create confusion among the members of the armed forces by spreading baseless information and rumours.

The premier said Bangladesh Army has earned international reputation and unwavering trust of people through their professionalism.

The present government believes in the development, extension and modernisation of Bangladesh

Army and has taken various steps in this regard, Hasina, also in charge of the defence ministry, told her audience.

She mentioned that the activities of the draft of National Defence Policy and settling the Army Forces Goal-2030 are under process to maintain the continuity of development in Bangladesh Army.

In this context, Hasina mentioned the recently signed agreements with Russia on purchasing military equipment worth $1 billion, saying these would play a vital role in increasing the capability of the armed forces.

She also said reforms and restructuring at different stages of the army would continue in the future. "These initiatives will boost the combat power and the mobility of the Bangladesh Army."

Mentioning the contribution of members of the armed forces in the UN peacekeeping missions, the premier said they are brightening the country's image at international level by performing their duties with sincerity and efficiency.

Members of the armed forces are always taking part in facing disasters, constructing infrastructures, serving mankind, assisting the civil administration and various nation-building and pro-people activities, Hasina added.

Defence Adviser Maj Gen (retd) Tarique Ahmed Siddique, Chief of Army Staff General Iqbal Karim Bhuiyan, PM's Principal Secretary Shaikh Md Wahid Uz Zaman, among others, were present on the occasion.

The official, however, said the government had an intention to remove any bad impression, if there is any, from the donors' mind over the Padma bridge corruption allegations.

The bridge project was not discussed at the meeting. The ERD secretary at the beginning told the representatives of the development partners that the finance minister will brief them on the bridge project later, said the ERD official.

The development partners urged the government to implement the NIS properly, and said they were ready to provide the government any assistance for implementing it.

Musharraf told The Daily Star that the schedule of presentation had been fixed earlier and it had nothing to do with the government's withdrawal of request for WB funds.

He said the presentation was not aimed at giving the donors any positive impression following the graft allegations in the bridge project.

The cabinet secretary said the development partners have highly praised the NIS paper and showed their interest in lending technical support for its implementation.

In October last year, the cabinet approved the NIS under which steps will be taken to stop corruption in public administration, judiciary, parliament, the Anti-Corruption Commission with the appointment of an ombudsman.

ERD Secretary Abul Kalam Azad, and UN Resident Coordinator and Local Consultative Group Co-chair Neal Walker jointly presided over the LCG meeting.

Azad later told reporters that no discussion on the Padma bridge project was held in the meeting.

The presentation on the NIS was followed by a LCG plenary meeting, the first of the four meetings to be held this year, where discussions were held on how to expedite the development projects.

Since ADP and Jica already pulled out of the Padma bridge project, Islamic Development Bank (IDB) will also discontinue its commitment in line with the co-financing agreement, said Azad.

IDB committed to fund $140 million in the bridge project.

leaders to be careful in commenting on tribunal proceedings, otherwise the tribunal would have to take action against them.

The three-member tribunal led by Justice Obaidul Hassan with members Justice Md Mozibur Rahman Miah and Judge M Shahinur Islam issued the show cause notice upon Alamgir following a verbal plea of a defence counsel.

Citing reports published in three newspapers, dailies Amar Desh, Sangram and Naya Diganta, defence counsel Tajul Islam said the home minister would have to submit his explanation in person or through his lawyer.

On August 5, 2012, Jamaat leader Abdul Quader Mollah filed a contempt of court petition against Syeda Sajeda Chowdhury in connection with her comments on trial proceedings.

On August 29, 2012, Jamaat leader Muhammad Kamaruzzaman filed another contempt petition against Agriculture Minister Matia Chowdhury for allegedly making a statement discourteous to the tribunal.

On December 25, 2012, the tribunal, on its own, asked Suranjit Sengupta, a minister without portfolio, to explain his comments on cases pending with the tribunal.

Suranjit had offered unconditional apology.

Prosecutor Rana Dasgupta yesterday told The Daily Star that the tribunal repeatedly asked "responsible persons" to make responsible comments but some comments were "unfortunate".

"Prima facie, the remark, if true, made by a responsible minister is unfortunate as it is tantamount to tarnishing the independence and image of the lawfully constituted judicial forum.

"No one is supposed to make derogatory remarks on a sub-judice matter," said Justice Hassan.

The tribunal fixed February 14 for passing further orders in this regard but it did not mention whether the home minister would have to submit his explanation in person or through his lawyer.

Prosecutor Rana Dasgupta yesterday told The Daily Star that the tribunal repeatedly asked "responsible persons" to make responsible comments but some comments were "unfortunate".

"For this reason, the tribunal's time is being wasted and we think the tribunal feels embarrassed dealing with such matters," he said, adding, "I think, they [Awami League leaders] should not make such comments."

Tajul Islam told The Daily Star that such comments of ruling party leaders are "interferences in the process of justice".

"Their comments show disrespect to the law and expose their ill-motives," he added.

JAMAAT LEADERS CAUTIONED

When the tribunal issued the show cause notice against the home minister, it also asked Jamaat leaders to be more careful in making comments on the tribunal.

The tribunal mentioned a report published in Bangla daily Prothom Alo, which quoted a Jamaat statement as saying, "A conspiracy is on to award Abdul Quader Mollah the death penalty for totally political purpose."

The tribunal asked Tajul, the defence counsel, "Is it right? Don't say this."

It said the Jamaat leaders might make political speeches but they should not deliver speeches about the court and its judges. They might make the political demand to cancel the tribunal but they cannot say that the tribunal is illegal.

"You [Tajul] communicate with them and tell them to watch their words. Otherwise, we will take action," it said.

Bangalees in protest mode in taking action. They called a strike at the university and at all educational institutions in East Bengal on February 26, 1948. Additionally, the Dhaka-based media, especially the daily Azad, came down heavily on Khawaja Nazimuddin over his controversial comments in the constituent assembly. The newspaper described Nazimuddin's views as a blunder.

The province, as a result of the rejection of Dutta's motion in the assembly, clearly went into protest mode. And it was becoming increasingly obvious that agitation was going to be the next step in the Bangalee's rejection of all attempts to foist Urdu on the country as the language of the state.

A number of political parties and groups lost little time in putting together a State Language Action Committee as a means of resisting the imposition of Urdu on the country and particularly on its majority province. A meeting of the committee at Dhaka University decided that a general strike in support of Bangla as the state language would be observed all over East Bengal on March 11, 1948.

On March 11, as the strike got underway, the police went into harsh action against a number of youth and student leaders seen as having been instrumental in organising the agitation. Among those taken into custody were Oli Ahad, Abdul Wadud Bhuiyan, Shamsul Haq, Shawkat Ali, Kazi Golam Mahub and Sheikh Mujibur Rahman. The arrests, however, had little effect on the general strike, which was spontaneously observed throughout the province.

It is revealing that the strike, called barely seven months after the establishment of Pakistan, was seen as the earliest manifestation of a revival of the essential secularist nature of the people of East Bengal. It certainly took the political classes based in West Pakistan by surprise.

The feeling, though, among them was that it was a deep-rooted conspiracy by the Hindu politicians of East Bengal, men who were fomenting rebellion among Bangalees with the ulterior motive of undoing the new state of Pakistan. The writing on the wall clearly was not being read by the authorities in Karachi, the national capital.

A day after the general strike, on March 12, Sher-e-Bangla AK Fazlul Huq issued a statement condemning the police action on the students of Dhaka University.

Pak Taliban condemn Mali intervention

AFP, Peshawar

The Pakistani Taliban urged the Muslim world to unite in a video message released yesterday as they condemned the French military intervention in Mali as an "ideological war".

French President Francois Hollande visited Mali on Saturday and vowed his troops would stay as long as necessary to continue the fight against Islamist rebels who had taken control of the country's north for 10 months.

Mufti Hannan

Tarique, then senior joint secretary general of BNP, assigned two party leaders - state minister for home Lutfuzzaman Babar and deputy minister Abdus Salam Pintu -- to provide all out assistance to the Huji men to carry out the attack.

Tarique, elder son of former prime minister Khaleda Zia, is now the party's senior vice chairman.

"Before the grenade attack on an Awami League rally on August 21, 2004, I along with several other Huji leaders went to Hawa Bhaban," Hannan said in the statement.

Hawa Bhaban was the political office of BNP Chairperson Khaleda Zia.

There, the militant leader said, he found Tarique, Abul Harris Chowdhury, former state minister for home Lutfuzzaman Babar, Abdus Salam Pintu, BNP lawmaker Kazi Shah Mofazzal Hossain Kaikobad and Jamaat-e-Islami Secretary General Ali Ahsan Muhammad Mojaheed.

Brigadier General Abdur Rahim, then director general of National Security Intelligence (NSI), and Brigadier General Rezzakul Haider Chowdhury, then director general of Directorate General of Forces Intelligence (DGFI), were also present.

"I informed them about the plan of grenade attack on Awami League rally, which was to be addressed by Sheikh Hasina, and sought their assistance."

Tarique then assured them of full support and told them to communicate with Babar and Pintu for administrative assistance, the statement read.

Hannan began his statement saying that AL was defeated in 2001 general election and BNP and Jamaat-e-Islami formed the government.

His organisation tried to strengthen its relation with BNP. Huji ameer Moulana Abdus Salam, Sheikh Farid, Moulana Yahiya, Abu Bakar and Jahangir Badar contacted BNP lawmakers Salauddin Quader Chowdhury and Kaikobad.

The two leaders arranged High Court bail for 41 Huji men arrested in Dhankhali in 1996.

Hannan said the Huji's communication with the BNP leaders continued and the outfit kept receiving assistance from them.

Towards the end of 2003, Abdus Salam Farid, Moulana Tajuddin, brother of BVNP leader Abdus Salam Pintu, met Babar at his government residence on Bailey Road in the capital. There GK Gaus, Ariful Islam, former DCC ward councillor, Yahiya and Abu Bakar, were also present there.

Babar told Gaus and Arif about the task of Sylhet and ordered them to do the work locally. In Sylhet, local BNP men and Huji men exploded grenades.

At the court yesterday, Habibur Rahman Bhuiyan said around 3:00pm on April 7 of 2011 jail police produced Mufti Hannan at his chamber for recording confessional statement.

Hannan was given three hours to make up his mind.

Judge Shahed Nuruddin of the Speedy Trial Tribunal-1 recorded Habibur's statement for half an hour yesterday.

Later, barrister Fakhru Islam, a counsel for Mufti Hannan, cross-examined him.

The defence will again cross-examine Habibur today as the court adjourned the trial proceedings for yesterday.

Syed Rezaur Rahman, chief counsel for the August 21 grenade attack cases, stood for the state.

The August 21, 2004 grenade attack on an Awami League rally killed Ivy Rahman, wife of President Zillur Rahman, along with 23 others and wounded over 300 people.

Sheikh Hasina, now prime minister, narrowly escaped death and suffered ear injuries.
