HC to get 20 new judges

ASHUTOSH SARKAR

Around 20 new judges are likely to be appointed to the High Court Division of the Supreme Court soon as some posts have been lying vacant due to retirement and elevation of judges to the Appellate Division.

Law Minister Shafique Ahmed told The Daily Star that the government would appoint the new judges to the HC after the chief justice initiates the process.

Quamrul Islam, state minister for law, said, "The new HC judges will be appointed within this month in order to reduce the number of pending cases and ensure fair justice."

Court sources said more than three lakh cases have been pending with the HC and about 17,000 cases with the Appellate Division.

There are now 10 judges for the Appellate Division and 90 for the HC.

In June last year, the number of HC judges stood at 100 following the appointments of six additional judges.

Six HC judges have retired since then.

BOSTON MANHUNT Suspect killed in gun battle

AP, Watertown

The two suspects in the Boston Marathon bombing killed an MIT police officer and hurled explosives at police in a car chase and gun battle overnight that left one of them dead and his brother on the loose, authorities said yesterday as thousands of officers swarmed the streets in a manhunt that all but paralysed the Boston area.

The suspects were identified by law enforcement officials and family members as Dzhokhar and Tamerlan Tsarnaev, brothers from a Russian region near Chechnya, which has been plagued by an Islamic insurgency that has carried out deadly bombings. They lived near Boston and had been in the US for about a decade, an uncle said.
