Labour courts inadequate

Only seven courts in operation, largely beyond workers' reach

SHAKHAWAT LITON

The labour and employment ministry cannot ensure justice to workers countywide due to a severe shortage of labour courts under the ministry, said officials concerned.

The seven existing labour courts established under the labour law remain largely out of workers' reach since these are located at divisional headquarters -- three courts in Dhaka, two in Chittagong and one each in Rajshahi and Khulna.

This means workers in different districts must go to the divisional headquarters to file cases with the labour courts, which is impossible for many, said officials in the labour ministry and labour courts.

Even there is no labour court at three divisional headquarters--Sylhet, Barisal and Rangpur. Workers living in Barisal division are more unfortunate than those working in Rangpur and Sylhet divisions. There are three

Canadian buyer pledges help

Vows to continue buying apparels from Bangladesh

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Loblaw, a major Canadian retailer, has vowed to keep sourcing apparel products from Bangladesh and help the country raise the standards for building codes.

The assurance came in the wake of the recent garment factory disaster in Savar that killed more than 500 people.

Galen G Weston, chairman of Loblaw, said his company wanted more rigorous factory inspections that

Make joint efforts to avert disasters

Deadly workplace accidents keep happening in Bangladesh, as the root cause, workers' right to form trade unions, had not been addressed, said Gilbert Houngbo, deputy director general (field operations) of International Labour Organisation (ILO).

"If the issue is not addressed properly, we might see the buyers move elsewhere for the sake of business," said visiting Houngbo during an interview with The Daily Star yesterday.

He said it needed joint efforts of the government, factory owners and buyers to solve the recurrence of fatal factory accidents.

"When it is a question of a worker's life, it is a serious matter," said

18-party rally in Dhaka today

Plan to 'assist Hefajat programme' tomorrow

RASHIDUL HASAN and PRABIR BARUA CHOWDHURY

The BNP-led 18-party alliance is set to hold a rally today in the capital to put weight on the government to realise its prime demand, restoration of the caretaker government system.

BNP Chairperson Khaleda Zia is expected to announce the opposition alliance's next course of action from the rally, said sources.

A number of BNP senior leaders yesterday told The Daily Star that they had set the rally date a day prior to Hefajat-e Islam's lay siege to Dhaka programme to assist the Islamist organisation.

Hefajat's programme is set to begin from tomorrow to materialise its 13-point demand, including introduction of Sharia [law of Islam] to punish atheists and those who act against Islam.

A top leader of Dhaka district BNP unit told The Daily Star

Muhith calls for common currency in South Asia

REJAUL KARIM BYRON, from New Delhi

Finance Minister AMA Muhith yesterday strongly supported the idea of introducing a common currency in South Asia for boosting regional trade.

He said the countries could embrace a common currency without getting all the other macro parameters in order as all of them (countries) are less sophisticated economies.

Even if all the Saarc (South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation) member countries do not agree with the idea, two or three nations could join hands and introduce the system, observed Muhith.

He was speaking at a seminar styled "Boosting Sub-Regional Development through Increased Investment and Trade." Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) organised the event at its headquarters in New Delhi.

The minister is now in the Indian capital to attend the 46th annual meeting of the Asian Development Bank.
