Akhaura-Agartala

Rail link work to start this year

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

India and Bangladesh are aiming to start setting a rail link between Agartala, the capital of India's northeastern state of Tripura, and Akhaura, a Bangladeshi town near the border, by the end of this

This was disclosed by officials of both countries after the project steering committee discussed the issue at a meeting at Bangladesh Rail Bhaban in the capital yester-

They said land acquisition, finalisation of alignment and detail design of the rail link would be completed by September next to pave the way for laying tracks.

"Today [yesterday] we discussed how fast we can start acquiring land, detail study and determining costs," said Sunil Kumar Pal, joint secretary of Bangladesh railway ministry, who headed a six-member Bangladesh delegation at the meeting.

"We want to do it within the next four months so that the construction work can begin at the end of 2013," he told The Daily Star.

Echoing his view, Kishor Ambuly, secretary of transport department of Tripura government, said the meeting discussed how the two sides could execute the rail link project in an expeditious

"Soon we will begin land acquisition process to determine how much land will be needed and its cost," he told The Daily Star, hoping to begin the project's construction in December next.

tional secretary of Indian external affairs ministry, led a six-member delegation at yesterday's meeting.

In February this year, Bangladesh and India signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) for the construction of the 15 kilometers rail tracks, of which 5 kilometers fall in the Indian side and the rest in Bangladesh.

As per the agreement, an estimated $28.05 million will be required to set up the railway line. India will bear the entire cost.

India is very keen to link Agartala with Akhaura as it is an important railway junction and is connected with Chittagong seaport as well as the capital and Sylhet.

The rail link will benefit India hugely in transporting goods from the mainland to its seven sister states, especially the Tripura state.

China is India's biggest trading partner, with twoway commerce totalling $67.83 billion in the last fiscal year to March 2013, up from $2.1 billion in 2001-02. But India's trade deficit with its neighbour soared to $40.77 billion last year from just $1.08 billion in 2001-02, Indian figures show.

Li said he wants a "dynamic trade balance" as the neighbours aim to raise twoway trade to $100 billion by 2015, and said they had "huge markets with huge potential".

Obama repeatedly used the word "Myanmar" rather than Burma. The former is the name introduced during military rule, and which is slowly being used more frequently by US officials as a courtesy to the reforming government.

The visit went ahead despite accusations by human rights groups that Myanmar authorities turned a blind eye or worse to a wave of deadly attacks against the Rohingya, who are not even considered citizens. Thein Sein told Obama that he was committed to reforms and, in a speech shortly afterward, said he wanted to build a "more inclusive national identity." "Myanmar people of all faiths -- Buddhists, Christians, Muslims, Hindus and others -- must feel part of this new national identity," he said, while stopping short of directly mentioning the Rohingya.

"We must end all forms of discrimination and ensure not only that intercommunal violence is brought to a halt, but that all perpetrators are brought to justice," he said at Johns Hopkins University's School of Advanced dent. International Studies. Thein Sein, who took office as a nominal civilian in 2011, said that the reforms he has undertaken were "unprecedented" and called for "maximum international support."
