Sunshine on His Shoulders

Dwijen Sharma, naturalist, botanist and writer has been writing about nature for more than forty years. Once he undertook a fifteen day journey on foot in order to collect botanical specimen. In his long career as a teacher, he built gardens wherever he worked. At 84, he still takes children to parks to introduce them to trees and shrubs. He went to Russia and many parts of Europe to learn from their experiences and apply that knowledge here. Building a large garden is still a dream of his.

The Writing on the Wall

Posters are put up on walls or poles not owned by the advertiser, making then resemble a collage of commercial posters, each competing with the other for space and public attention. Walls that should have been left in peace are thus turned into messy, cluttered, unbecoming eyesores.
