Cover Story 8-15

The Wrath of the Majority

On August 3, life in Taindong, a remote hamlet in Khagrachhari, became a nightmare that would not end. Thirty-five houses were burnt to the crowd, leaving the residents homeless and terrified by this unprovoked act of hatred and racism.

Politics of Mistrust

Bangladesh's politicians don't trust each other, why would the voters trust them?

23-25 Travel

The Last Shangri-La

While traversing along the steep and curved highway through the Himalayan valley in Bhutan anyone would be mesmerised by its solemn and divine beauty. This ancient pathway is still carrying the reminiscence of antique journeys taken by monks and silk route travellers.
