

Unfortunately, the CHT Land Dispute Resolution Commission Act 2001 and the following establishment of Land Commission failed to solve the land related problems in the hilly area.

and their lands were seized by the Bengalis with direct assistance of Bangladesh army.

Unfortunately, the CHT Land Dispute Resolution Commission Act 2001 and the following establishment of Land Commission failed to solve the land related problems in the hilly area. According to a Daily Star report Published in May, the commission chair Justice Khademul Islam and the representative of Chittagong division commissioner Nurul Islam, who is an additional commissioner, were present for the hearing of 48 land dispute cases but they postponed the hearing due to quorum crisis. Moreover, according to Land Commission report at least 5,000 applications for resolving land disputes have been filed with the commission and it has sorted out 3,000 for hearing. Among them 48 were finalised for the first hearing.

Pampu neither blames Bengali nor Hilly people for the incident, but he believes it is the government who is more reluctant to resolve the problem. ■