ROBERT DI NERO

Considered as one of the greatest actors of his time, Robert Di Nero was born in New York in 1943. With his role in the film 'Bang the Drum Slowly' (1973), he gained vast popularity in Hollywood. 'Mean Streets', 'The Godfather Part II', 'Taxi Driver', The Deer Hunter, Cape Fear, A Bronx Tale are some of his significant works.

"You learned the two greatest things in life, never rat on your friends, and always keep your mouth shut.

You'll have time to rest when you're dead.

I think Hollywood has a class system. The actors are like the inmates, but the truth is they're running the asylum.

Money makes your life easier. If you're lucky to have it, you're lucky."

Favourite material

Recently glass, traditionally water colour and acrylic

One subject you have fascination for

People's face.

The colour you use over and over again

It mostly depends on my mood. But if I have to name a few I would say blue and grey.

Most important achievement

I would consider the place where I am standing today as an independent freelancer is my most significant achievement.

The goal you would like to fulfill in the coming years

To do something on a bigger scale with glass paintings. I intend to make some sculpture with glasses.

Inspiration for being an artist

I generally wake up very early in the morning, and the freshness of the morning inspires me the most.

Recipe for success

There is no shortcut path of being an artist. You need to give your fullest devotion and passion to become one.
