BBC BANGLADESH SANGLAP Punishment for anti-Hindu pogromists demanded

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Agriculture Minister Matia Chowdhury yesterday said the people responsible for attacking Hindus around the country should be punished regardless of their political stripes.

Such attacks were a shame for the nation, she told the BBC Bangladesh Sanglap, a debate on contemporary affairs, in the capital's Biam auditorium.

In response to a question from the audience, BNP Standing Committee Member Mahbubur Rahman, another of the four panellists, termed Hindus a "pawn on the chess board".

"After elections, one party wins while the other loses. But Hindus always remain the loser. They are never accepted by the winners," he said.

Architect Mobasser Hossain said persecution of the minority Hindus were to grab their properties.

Talking over whether sealing the press of the Bangla daily Inquilab by the government recently rings any alarm for other houses, Mahbubur said others might feel a pressure for this.

Matia, however, called the action a temporary measure and said the newspaper had published an article intentionally at a time when Hindus were being attacked countrywide.

In its Thursday issue, the Inquilab claimed India's participation in the joint force drive against criminals in violence-hit Satkhira but issued an apology yesterday.

Commerce Minister Tofail tells media in India, appears to brush aside western demands for fresh elections

OUR CORRESPONDENT, New Delhi

Bangladesh Commerce Minister Tofail Ahmed yesterday termed Jamaat-e-Islami a "terrorist organisation" and appeared to have ruled out possibilities of fresh parliamentary elections in the near future as demanded by some western countries.

Wrapping up his four-day visit to India, the first by a Bangladeshi minister since the January 5 elections in Bangladesh, Tofail said the BNP-led opposition had not backed out from its three key demands.

The three are for Sheikh Hasina's resignation as prime minister, installation of a neutral caretaker government, and a guarantee of victory for the opposition on joining fresh polls, said the senior Awami League (AL) leader.
