Suchitra Sen mourned in Pabna

AHMED HUMAYUN KABIR TOPU, Pabna

Pabna residents are deeply shocked at the demise of the legendary actress Suchitra Sen who hailed from Pabna. The world has lost the queen of filmdom but the people of Pabna have lost their most famous daughter of the district, speakers said at a condolence meeting held at the Pabna Press club auditorium on Friday night.

Organised by Suchitra Sen Smriti Shangrakhan Parishad (SSSSP), the condolence meeting recalled the contribution of Sen to the world of films. President of SSSSP, Pabna Md. Saidul Haque Chunnu chaired the meeting. Cultural activists, journalists and a cross section of the society were present.

Sen was born on April 6, 1931 at her maternal grandfather's village Bhangabari of Belkuchi upazila under Greater Pabna. She spent her childhood and her youth at her father's village Gopalpur in Pabna town before leaving the country in 1947.

Sen's home was grabbed by Imam Gazzali School, a pro-Jamaat institution three decades ago and there is no sign that the estate will be recovered from the illegal occupants due to a prolonged legal battle. People of the district have staged demonstrations to call for the restoration of historic house from Jamaat's hands.

The restoration of Sen's house is not merely a local demand but a national demand as well, said the speakers. They advanced the view that the government should set up an archive or museum at Sen's ancestral home.

Among the speakers were, secretary of SSSSP Dr. Ram Dulal Bhoumik, veteran journalist Ronaish Maitra, Anwarul Haque, president of Pabna Press Club Shobojit Nag, principal of Shahid Shadhin Music College Abdul Matin Khan, president of Pabna Drama Circle Sirajul Islam Hira, secretary of Ekushey Boimela Udzpan Parishad Zakir Hossain and headmaster of Pabna Government Girls High School Aliza Khatun.

"Jibondhuli" to open Shiliguri Int'l Film Fest

Tanvir Mokammel's latest feature film "Jibondhuli", based on the Liberation War, will be opening the 14th Shiliguri International Film Festival on February 1. Tanvir Mokammel has also been invited to the festival, says a press release.

Meanwhile, the film will also compete in the 6th Jaipur International Film Festival, where it will be screened on February 4.

Elsewhere, a special screening of "Jibondhuli" will be held at the Eisenstein Cine Club Kolkata on January 27, where a number of noted personalities from Kolkata's cultural arena are expected to attend.

Tributes pour in for Suchitra

Suchitra Sen's popularity among the people of West Bengal and Bangladesh remains unmatched decades after she graced the silver screen. The songs she lip-synced are still a rage and she is still the reference point for upcoming actresses.

Well-known British film critic Derek Malcolm once said: "She was very, very beautiful. She had this 'still' quality. She did not need to do a lot of 'acting'."

Among the most memorable performances of Sen was her depiction of the trauma of a woman unable to hold on to her marriage in "Saat Pake Bandha" and the role of a emotionally-traumatised woman who temporarily loses her vision in "Sagarika".

Sen was a trendsetter in many respects -- one of them being she had posed scantily-clothed for modelling and another being her entry into films five years after her marriage--something unimaginable in those days.

Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh condoled the death of Suchitra Sen saying she had "carved a special niche in the hearts of millions of Indians through her graceful cinematic presence. Sen's versatility and range of performances, in a career spanning nearly three decades, mark a unique contribution to Indian cinema, and to Bengali films in particular".

The entire Bengali cinema industry and Bollywood paid rich tributes to Suchitra Sen, recalling her mesmerising beauty and strong portrayal of roles in films.

Bollywood veteran Amitabh Bachchan remembered Suchitra for her beauty, grace, enigma and acting prowess.

Bengali cinema superstar Prosenjit Chatterjee posted on Twitter, "It's a great loss for Bengali Cinema and Indian Cinema Maha Nayika is no more..."

Actress Rituparna Sengupta, who is set to reprise Sen's iconic character Debi Chowdhurani, said "She was a great symbol of women empowerment. She was not only known in Bengali film industry but also in the international cinema. I look up to her. She lived in the minds of people and is remembered for her beautiful smile and the aura."

Bollywood star Sridevi tweeted "an actor par excellence, a divine beauty, a legend and an icon who will inspire generations to come."

"RIP Suchitra Sen... Real inspiration... How to detach yourself from the Stardom and Film world... Spiritual power," tweeted director Shoojit Sircar.

Filmmaker Madhur Bhandarkar said her demise will be a great loss to the Bengali cinema. "Suchitra Sen will always be remembered for her remarkable performances in Devdas, Aandhi, Mamta and immense contribution to Bengali Cinema."

Madhuri Dixit said "Indian Cinema will miss you, Suchitra Sen".

Bollywood actor Manoj Bajpayee said "Suchitra Sen: there is so much learn from your life and your work! you will be missed".

DM3 release date announced

Universal Studios has announced that "Despicable Me 3" will be released in June 2017. The film will follow "Despicable Me 2", which has taken an estimated $935 million at the box office since being released last year. It was also recently announced that a spin-off film of the animated series, called "Minions" is currently in production.

It has not yet been confirmed which members of the cast, including Carell and Kristen Wigg, will feature in the new film. Russell Brand, Steve Coogan and Ken Jeong -- who plays Mr. Chow in the Hangover films -- also voiced characters in "Despicable Me 2".

The film was named in the best animation category at the Golden Globes.

The original "Despicable Me" film was released in 2010.

IT'S TRUE!

The word "citara" is derived from the Greek word kithara, an instrument from classical times used in Ancient Greece and later throughout the Roman Empire and in the Arab world; the word "guitar" derives from "qithara" as well. The terms "cithare" or "cithar" are also used more broadly to describe the entire family of stringed instruments in which the strings do not extend beyond the sounding box, including the hammered dulcimer, psaltery, Appalachian dulcimer, guqin, guzheng, koto, gusli, kantele, gayageum, dàn tranh, kanun, auto-harp, santon, yangqin, piano, harpsichord, santur, swarmandal, and others.

Highlighting riverine life of Bangladesh and UK

Pagol Chand Mela held in Narail

Visitors throng the fair.

PONUEL S BOSE, Narail

Thousands of people attended the Pagol Chand Mela at Hijoldanga village under Narail Sadar Upazila of the district on January 14.

Organised by Pagol Chand Mela Organising Committee, the day long fair was observed marking the death anniversary of a Hindu priest called Pagol

Chand. The day is observed on the last day of the Bangla month Poush.

Kishore Kumar Biswas, president of the committee said that the fair dates back about 150 years. Over 50, 000 people from different communities came to the fair, defying the bone chilling winds and foggy weather. While children were seen on the Nagar Dola, 100 stalls revealed a variety of colourful goods.
