Women leaders demand in Pabna

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Pabna

Women leaders of Bangladesh Hindu-Bouddha-Christian Oikya Parishad yesterday demanded that the government take immediate steps to free the ancestral house of legendary actress Suchitra Sen in Pabna town from Jamaat's grip and set up a museum there.

They raised the demand at a press conference held at Pabna Press Club auditorium at noon. Joyanti Roy, Roslin Kosta, Modhumita Roy, Purabi Mazumder, Laxmi Chakraborty and Dipali Chakraborty addressed the conference.

The speakers said restoration of Sen's house is not merely a local demand but a national demand as well.

They urged the government to free the house from Jamaat's occupation and set up an archive or museum there.

They also requested the government to issue an order to the grabbers to leave the house as early as possible. Earlier on the day, five women leaders of the parishad visited Sen's ancestral house at Gopalpur in Pabna town.

The house was occupied by 'Imam Gazzali School', a pro-Jamaat institution, three decades ago and there is no sign that it (house) will be recovered soon from the illegal occupants due to a prolonged legal battle.

People of the district and the cultural activists have also staged several demonstrations to mount pressure on the government to free Sen's house from the grabbers.

Suchitra Sen was born on April 6, 1931 at her maternal grandfather's house at Bhangabari village in Belkuchi upazila under Greater Pabna. Sen spent her childhood and her youth at her father's residence at Gopalpur in Pabna town before leaving the country in 1947.

As there is hardly enough room for the growing number of children affected by cold-related diseases at Thakurgaon Sadar Hospital, parents and relatives have to stay with their kids on the floor of the children's ward.

Cold-hit child patients crowd hospitals

STAR COUNTRY DESK

The number of child patients have shot at hospitals in several northern districts as cold related diseases, including diarrhoea, pneumonia, spread due to fluctuation of temperature.

Amid shivering cold, scores of guardians were seen staying on the floors and verandah of Thakurgaon Sadar Hospital with their ailing children yesterday, reports our correspondent.

At least 173 patients were admitted to the hospital's children's ward against only 18-seat in the last two days, hospital sources said.

Of the patients, 89 were affected with pneumonia, 39 with diarrhoea, 36 neonatal and 9 with other cold related diseases, said Dr. Shajahan Newaj, senior consultant on child disease at the hospital.

The patients are being forced to share a single bed by two or three patients.

As the hospital's ward cannot accommodate the growing number of patients, most are now staying on the verandah and corridor.

Besides, over 200 patients receive treatment at the outdoor every day. Most of them suffering from respiratory problems received treatment at the outdoor on Monday and yesterday, said hospital sources.

The number of child patients with pneumonia and cold related diseases saw a sharp rise as the kids are most vulnerable to the situation when temperature falls or goes up sharply, doctors at the hospital said.

Our correspondent in Kurigram reported that the Sadar Hospital in the district was struggling to accommodate the growing number of child patients.

There are only 12 beds for children against at least a hundred cold-hit kids who were seeking admission at the hospital.

Every day, at least 300 children take treatment at the out-door and in-door outlets of the hospital because of various cold-related diseases, including diarrhoea and pneumonia, hospital sources said.

"We are facing acute crisis of beds for in-door treatments of the children. We are now treating around a hundred kids on the hospital floor everyday, said Dr. Nazrul Islam, RMO at the hospital.

He cited cold weather coupled with dense
