

MEGHNA RIVER IN B'BARIA HC orders action against encroachers

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday directed police to take appropriate legal action against persons encroaching upon the Meghna river in Brahmanbaria's Ashuganj by filling it with earth and constructing a jetty.

In response to Human Rights and Peace for Bangladesh's (HRPB) February 11 writ petition, it ordered the government to remove in seven days the construction materials, take initiatives to stop further encroachment and submit in four weeks a compliance report.

It also issued a rule upon 10 government officials to explain in two weeks why the encroachment should not be declared illegal.

The officials include the shipping secretary, Bangladesh Inland Water Transport Authority chairman, Brahmanbaria's deputy commissioner and superintendent of police and Ashuganj Police Station's officer-in-charge.

Manzill Murshid, representing HRPB, told the court that local Awami League and BNP leaders were carrying out the encroachment in violation of a Supreme Court ruling and environment laws while the Ashuganj administration had remained silent.

Govt fears nobody's 'angry eyes': Matia

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Criticising different quarters' questions on the legality of the recently held 10th parliamentary polls, Agriculture Minister Matia Chowdhury yesterday said the government does not fear anyone's "angry eyes".

"A section of people at home and abroad is trying to foil democratic ruling of the country through questioning the election, which we held maintaining constitutional process. So, we do not want to seek anybody's advice regarding that," she said while addressing a discussion on the chief guest.

The discussion was organised by Krishibid Institution, Bangladesh at its auditorium on the occasion of Krishibid Day yesterday.

Lawmaker krishibid Abdur Razzak, among others, spoke at the programme, which was chaired by lawmaker AFM Bahauddin Nasim, also president of Krishibid Institution, Bangladesh.

NATIONAL FOREST POLICY LOOPHOLES Afforestation in coastal areas failing to generate benefits

Speakers tell IUCN workshop

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Since National Forest Policy 1994 fails to recognise the benefits of permanent afforested coastal areas, the government leases out the lands 20 years after planting the trees, leaving local communities vulnerable to natural disasters, speakers told a workshop yesterday.

The lessees, for agricultural purposes, cut the trees which are needed for at least 30 years for enough earth to accumulate and raise the lands above sea level, said Paramesh Nandy, Bangladesh Forest Research Institute's former chief research officer.

This occurred as the government's policymakers in 1994 could not comprehend climate change's adverse effects, they said.

The International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) organised the workshop, "Developing and Mainstreaming Climate Resilient Policies in Bangladesh", in the capital's Cirdap.

IUCN researcher Mohammad Aminur Rahman Shah said the policy should specifically state that salinity tolerant trees like Babla should be planted in coastal areas while palm and date trees should be planted in drought prone districts.

They cited points based on statements of the 61 prosecution witnesses. The Second Additional Metropolitan Sessions Judge's Court of Dhaka fixed February 19 for the next hearing.

Akbar, a former vice principal of a madrasa of Shiddirganj in Narayanganj, gave a confessional statement before a magistrate on June 14, 2001.

During the traditional celebrations of Bangla New Year 1408 (April 1, 2001) in the capital's Ramna Batamul, a blast killed 10 people and injured 50 others. On February 6, the prosecution completed arguments and sought death for all 14, including Mufti Abdul Hannan, the banned militant outfit's chief and the attack's alleged mastermind.
