

Dhaka, Delhi have to work together

Says Indian envoy

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Indian High Commissioner in Dhaka Pankaj Saran yesterday said Bangladesh and India have to work together as they need to "grow and prosper" as next door neighbours.

He was addressing the seventh council of Bangladesh-India Friendship Society at Dhaka University's Senate Bhavan.

Speaker of the House Shirin Sharmin Chaudhury relationship between the two countries will continue to strengthen as India and Bangladesh have good ties.

She also congratulated the newly elected government of India.

The speaker opined if a joint working committee of the lawmakers of the two countries could be formed then it would be possible to solve different issues standing in the way of a good relationship between Bangladesh and India.

Foreign Minister Abul Hasan Mahmud Ali, Dhaka University Vice Chancellor Dr AAMS Arefin Siddique, and Chairman of University Grants Commission Dr AK Azad Chowdhury also spoke.

Tolerance from all

In addition, a senior doctor of Sikder Women's Medical College Hospital in Dhaka had assaulted senior journalist Shishir Morol, which should not be tolerated, said Abdul Jalil Bhuyian, secretary general of a faction of the Bangladesh Federal Union of Journalists (BFUJ).

MA Aziz, secretary general of another faction of the BFUJ, said doctors who physically assaulted journalists had suffered moral degradation.

Dr Rashid-E-Mahbub, president of Bangladesh Health Rights Movement, regretted the incidents of assault on journalists, and said none would be benefited if the relationship between doctors, patients and journalists deteriorated.

Senior physician Jamal Uddin Chowdhury and rights activist Khushi Kabir also spoke.

Govt plans to set up cyber security dept

BSS, Dhaka

The government has planned to set up a separate "Cyber Security Department" to deal with the fast growing cyber crimes that have emerged as a threat to the national security and financial services.

The department will have a computer response incident team which will work as a trouble shooter to address the computer related cyber crime incidents.

"With the advancement of digitisation of financial system, introduction of various e-Services and e-Commerce the cyber crimes have emerged as a threat for ensuring uninterrupted online services," Information and Communication (ICT) Secretary Md Nazrul Islam Khan told the news agency.

He said setting up of a separate cyber security department has become inevitable because of frequent cyber attacks on the websites and online system.

The ICT Division is making a proposal relating to establishment of a "Cyber Crimes Department" for submitting it to the relevant authorities, Khan added.

build a society free from vindictiveness, where people will respect each other's rights, she said.

As restorative justice encompasses all forms of mediation outside court, she cautions, "We must be careful so that none can pursue individual interest in the name of mediation."

Under restorative justice, mediation can be conducted by government or non-government agencies, civil society bodies or individuals at family level.

Addressing the seminar, Dhaka University Vice Chancellor Prof AAMS Arefin Siddique said crimes like abduction, killing were on the rise in society, as people focused more on their interest instead of ethics. Restorative justice can help reduce the existing culture of impunity in the country, he added.

Islamic University VC Prof Abdul Hakim Sarker said more than 20 lakh cases were pending in different courts of Bangladesh, which might take 10 to 15 years to be cleared.

also warns against the use of false post-graduate degrees.

Dr Abdur Rab, a senior consultant who visits patients at a chamber on Jamal Khan Road and mentions MD (gastro-thesis) beside his name, said he would ask his institution to remove it from his signboard and visiting card. "We all should follow the instructions of BMDC."

Dr Zahedul Haque Basunia, registrar of the BMDC, told The Daily Star that they had published the notice to warn the doctors not to use the unauthorised degrees.

"Doctors who did not know which degrees are authorised and which are not now have a clear idea about it after the publication of the notice," he said, adding that many doctors had removed unauthorised degrees after this notice was issued.

The BMDC urged doctors and dentists to stay away from such practice if they are to avoid facing cancellation of registration and other punitive action.

Dr Arman Hossain, deputy registrar of BMDC, said it was the responsibility of the civil surgeons to execute the decision in respective districts.

Talking to The Daily Star, Civil Surgeon of Chittagong Dr Sarfaraj Khan Chowdhury said they would take action against the errant doctors from next month.
