Just for Dad

What can you give the man who's been there for you through thick and thin? Here are five gift ideas to surprise your dad with on this Father's Day!

1 Special Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner Only for Him

If you want to impress your old man, go for the complete haul. Surprise him with a breakfast in bed, and then you could take him out for lunch and then again make something simple for dinner and dessert. Your dad will love this little change in the routine!

2 Personalised Coupons

You could create a booklet of four personalised coupons by hand that he can use at any point of time. They could say things like, "One Free Week: I get the TV to myself for the entire day," or "One Lazy Week: I don't have to clean up after dinner." Once he uses a coupon, he must tear it out of the booklet and throw it away.

3 Scrabble Photo Frames

Buy an inexpensive picture frame, put in a picture that you both love, and add your special message to your dad in Scrabble tiles. You could put in a fun picture of the two of you or of the whole family and then add a personal message to say that you love him.

4 A Day at the Spa

Even super dads need a day off. You could take your dad to a spa and treat him with a free massage there. He will appreciate the thought and shower you with love for his one day off.

5 Roll-Up Tool Organiser

If your father likes taking charge of all things carpentry related, this would be the perfect gift for him. You could make one for him or get him one from a hardware store. The organizer could hold wrenches, a small hammer, and other carpentry tools he uses regularly.

— UPASHANA SALAM