"Fury" to close
London Film Festival

World War II drama "Fury", starring Brad Pitt, is to close the 2014 London Film Festival, organisers have announced. He will attend the October 19 premiere with director David Ayer, who said it was "a true pleasure to be returning to England, where we shot the film."

Set in 1945, "Fury" tells of an army sergeant who takes command of a tank crew for a mission behind enemy lines, and also stars Shia LaBeouf, Logan Lerman and Michael Pena.

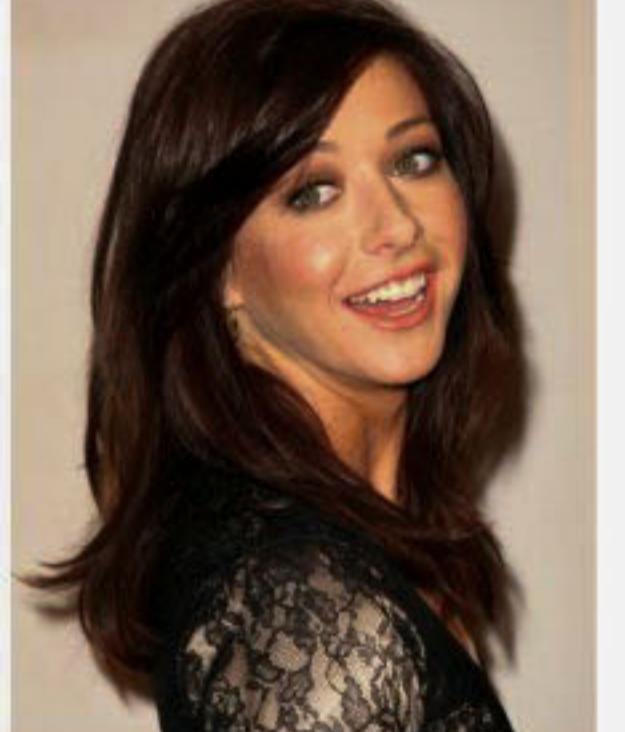

Clare Stewart, London Film Festival director, described Fury as "a resounding cinematic achievement" that would bring this year's event "to a monumental close".

Pitt, 50, previously appeared in Quentin Tarantino's World War II film "Inglourious Basterds" and was seen last year battling zombies in "World War Z".

The London Film Festival will open on October 8 with "The Imitation Game", a film about World War II codebreaker Alan Turing, starring Benedict Cumberbatch.

Bangladesh Udichi Shilpi Goshti paid homage to Rabindranath Tagore, Kazi Nazrul Islam and Sukanta Bhattacharya at a programme on Saturday afternoon. Dhaka Mohanagar Unit of Udichi arranged the programme at the National Music and Dance Centre auditorium of Bangladesh Shilpkala Academy.

The event began with the choral rendition of songs written by the three poets. Tagore's "Ekla Cholo Re" followed by Nazrul's "Karat Oi Louho Kopat" and Sukanta's "He Mohajibon" set the mood of the evening.

Later, a discussion was held with Kamal Lohani, eminent journalist and President of Udichi Central Committee; Dr. Moniruzzaman; Dr. Taha Yasin, Nazrul exponent and Dr. Ratan Siddique, Udichi Central Committee vice president. President of Udichi Mohanogor Sangshad, Kazi Mohammad Shish presided over the discussion.

Dr. Moniruzzaman explained how Rabindranath created a distinct style in his songs, and thus ushered in a new era of Bangla songs.

Dr. Taha Yasin described how Nazrul created literary masterpieces, and related the tales of common people. He discussed various aspects of Nazrul's personal life and his views on society and politics. He also focused on the poet's relevance in the contemporary socio-political scenario.

Dr. Ratan Siddique discussed Sukanta Bhattacharya's social and political ideologies. He shed light on how the poet proved that literature, culture and politics are interrelated. Sukanta raised his voice for common people and was an observer of the minutest details of life, he continued.

Kamal Lohani discussed the three poets' contributions to our socio-cultural scenario. He amplified on how the three poets fuelled our struggle for freedom and how their verses still inspire us to forge ahead. "Tagore influenced our nationalism. During the pre-liberation era cultural organisations had to face obstacles in featuring Rabindranath as the Pakistan Government held that Tagore was not a part of our culture. But we carried on and still we take inspiration from him."

"Nazrul was a voice against oppression. His songs guided us. There should be no debate surrounding Rabindranath and Nazrul. Both of them are an indispensable part of our culture and literature," he continued. "Sukanta taught us to raise our heads high. He tried to spread the fire of communism among the society as he was tremendously inspired by Soviet Revolution," he added.

Kamal Lohani said "Udichi has been celebrating the birth anniversaries of these three poets for long. The organisation will continue to celebrate these three poets together."

Later, a cultural programme was held with the participation of members of Udichi, where the three poets were celebrated through music, dance and recitation.

Theatre troupe Swapnodal is celebrating the 65th birth anniversary of Natyacharya Selim Al Deen through a five-day programme. The programme was inaugurated on Saturday afternoon at the seminar room of Bangladesh Shilpkala Academy. Cultural Affairs Secretary Dr. Ranajit Kumar Biswas, noted theatre personalities Ataur Rahman and Nasiruddin Yousuff along with other cultural personalities were present.

"Ek Jiboner Shahid" -Shahid

SHAH ALAM SHAZU

One of the lead vocals of band Durbin, Shahid shot into the spotlight through a hit song rendered with Shubhomita, the renowned singer from Kolkata. Later, he did an album "Ek Jibone 2" along with her. His solo album "Nilambori", nominated for popular Meril-Prothom Alo awards, also entertained music lovers.

The Daily Star recently interviewed the popular componer-musician.

Since when have you been involved in music?

Shahid: I was so fond of music early on that I would take my bicycle and head off miles to listen to songs. As I could play the drum, bamboo flute and violin adeptly, I always rushed to ashor (musical soiree). After the completion of my studies, I shifted to Dhaka to start my music career.

Tell us about the formation of band Durbin?

Shahid: On my arrival in Dhaka, I started writing in a newspaper as many of my friends were journalists. When I was an MBA student, some friends and I formed the band in 2004. We could not practice very much due to scarcity of space. We released our first album "Durbin" with the help of a number of well-wishers.

You are widely known as Ek Jiboner Shahid; tell us about it.

Shahid: To me, a singer generally comes into the spotlight through one or two songs. It is really a great achievement for me that my fans picked me as Ek Jiboner Shahid. I want to make many such popular songs.

Tell us about your solo albums.

Shahid: In 2008, I released an album. In 2011, my second album "Nilambori" was released while the third, "Nil Chhoan" hit the audio market in 2013.

Do you enjoy working with upcoming artistes?

Shahid: I always try to assist newcomers when I have the leisure. Everyone should work with experienced and new artistes; after all I was once a fresher in the music world. Many newcomers are doing praiseworthy work.

What about your venture into playback?

Shahid: I did my first playback for the movie "Excuse Me". Recently, I worked on a song for the film "Welcome 2". I'm now busy doing playback for several other projects.

Which form of musical performance appeals to you?

Shahid: I love working everywhere. But I have a fascination for stage performances.
