Tragic!

AFP, Algiers

Cameroonian football player Albert Ebosse died Saturday after he was hit by a projectile thrown from the stands following his team's loss in the Algerian football championship, APS news agency reported. Ebosse, who was 24, was declared dead after he was rushed to a hospital at Tizi Ouzou, east of the capital Algiers, where the match took place. He scored the lone goal for his club JS Kabylie in the home match in what turned out to be a 2-1 defeat against USM Alger, on the second day of the tournament. Fans had started throwing objects from the stands inside the Tizi Ouzou stadium after the match as the players were returning to their changing room. Ebosse joined JS Kabylie in 2013, and was best scorer in the 2013-2014 championship. The Algerian interior ministry ordered an investigation to search for the culprit. Meanwhile, the Confederation of African Football (CAF) have called for "exemplary sanctions" following the death of Ebosse.

Mercury to rise at the Etihad

Manchester City and Liverpool will renew their rivalry beneath the Etihad Stadium floodlights on Monday in the first major head-to-head encounter of the fledgling Premier League season. When the teams last met, at Anfield in April, a late Philippe Coutinho goal gave Liverpool a 3-2 victory that left them on course for a first league title since 1990. But with the finishing line in sight, Brendan Rodgers's side collapsed, allowing City to creep up on the rails and pip them to the title by two points. Liverpool's late-season slump was particularly traumatic for captain Steven Gerrard, whose slip against Chelsea allowed Demba Ba to score a goal that allowed City back into the title race.

Bolt skips Zurich meet

THE GUARDIAN

Usain Bolt has pulled out of the Weltklasse Diamond League meeting in Zurich on Thursday, organisers have announced. The Jamaican, who clocked 9.98sec in Warsaw on Saturday night in only his second individual race of an injury-hampered season, has opted to bring an early end to his campaign. Zurich had been his last scheduled competition. A statement from the organisers said Bolt's coach, Glen Mills, was satisfied with the sprinter's performances on his comeback from the foot injury which had delayed his start to the season, but "feels it is now time to shut it down while he is healthy and injury free with a view on his preparations for the 2015 season".

The world's fastest man has competed only four times in 2014, twice at the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow as he anchored Jamaica to 4x100m relay gold, on the Copacabana beach in Rio de Janeiro in the Mano a Manorace where he won in 10.06sec and then in Warsaw, where this time was an unofficial world best for an indoor 100m.

Bayer Leverkusen forward Karim Bellarabi (R) fires in a ninth-second goal, which is a Bundesliga record, against homeside Borussia Dortmund on Saturday.

Bellarabi's 9th second stunner

AFP, Berlin

Bayer Leverkusen's Karim Bellarabi hit the Bundesliga's fastest ever goal to help condemn title hopefuls Borussia Dortmund to a 2-0 defeat in their opening game on Saturday.

The Leverkusen attacker struck after just nine seconds and then set up Stefan Kiessling in injury time as the visitors won in Dortmund for the second season in a row.

Bellarabi's strike was two seconds quicker than the previous record held by Bayern Munich's Giovane Elber and Leverkusen's Ulf Kirsten, both of whom scored in the 11th second of a Bundesliga game.

The visitors needed just three passes after the kick-off to find the net. Sebastian Boenisch picked out Bellarabi on the edge of the penalty area and he turned inside Matthias Ginter before firing beyond Mitchell Langerak.

Dortmund were shellshocked and Leverkusen gave them little time to find their rhythm.

New recruit Hakan Calhanoglu drove a free-kick wide for Leverkusen before Boenisch

RESULTS

Hoffenheim 2 (Szalai 33, Elyounoussi 35) Augsburg 0
Hanover 2 (Prib 67, Joselu 70) Schalke 0 1 (Huntelaar 47)
Hertha Berlin 2 (Schieber 16, 47) Werder Bremen 2 (Lukimya-Mulongo 53, Di Santo 55)
Eintracht Frankfurt 1 (Seferovic 15) SC Freiburg 0
Cologne 0 Hamburg 0
Dortmund 0 Bayer Leverkusen 2 (Bellarabi 1, Kiessling 90+5) screwed a shot well off target.

Last season's runners-up improved after the interval but Leno brilliantly saved a header from Ginter with six minutes remaining and denied Ciro

Immobile a debut goal in the final minute of normal time.

Kiessling then sealed the win five minutes into stoppage time after Bellarabi won the ball from from Dortmund left-back Erik Durm.

Schalke were dumped out of the German Cup by third division Dynamo Dresden on Monday but Klaas Jan-Huntelaar's goal looked set to give them victory on Saturday at Hanover.

Last season the Dutch striker's 12 goals helped Schalke finish third and he opened his account for the new campaign 90 seconds into the second half.

Di Maria exit imminent

AFP, Madrid

Argentine midfielder Angel di Maria's expected move to Manchester United should be completed in the coming days, Real Madrid boss Carlo Ancelotti confirmed on Sunday.

Di Maria had previously expressed his desire to leave the European champions before the end of the transfer window and he is on the verge of a move to United.

However, the Old Trafford club is facing a significant price tag if it is to secure the signature of the 26-year-old winger.

Madrid is aiming to receive somewhere in the region of 80 million to 90 million euros for Di Maria, though the initial fee paid by United could be lower with bonuses and add-ons supplementing the deal.

Di Maria, meanwhile, could pocket a 6 million euro signing-on fee and sign a five-year contract worth close to the 375,000 euros a week earned by Wayne Rooney.

"Di Maria hasn't trained, it is not official but the transfer is very close," Ancelotti said ahead of his side's La Liga opener against Cordoba on Monday.

"I thank him for what he has given this club. Personally I had a fantastic relationship with him and he did great work for this club.

"It was his decision. The club has done everything possible to make him stay. I wish him luck."

Di Maria was the man-of-the-match as Real claimed their 10th European Cup with a 4-1 win over Atletico Madrid back in May to cap a fine season.

Ancelotti insisted, though, that Sami Khedira will not be leaving over the next week despite having under 12 months left on his contract.

"He is happy and he will stay. He is very important for the team."

Bilbao beaten

AFP, Madrid

Champions League hopefuls Athletic Bilbao got their La Liga campaign off to a poor start as they were beaten 1-0 at Malaga on Saturday.

Liverpool loanee Luis Alberto scored the only goal of the game as he tapped home the rebound after Gorka Iraizoz had saved his penalty 10 minutes before half-time.

The hosts ended the game with nine men after Duda and Vitorino Antunes saw late red cards, but they held on as Iraizoz had a stunning stoppage time equaliser controversially ruled out for offside.

Athletic will be hoping for an immediate response when they host Napoli in the second leg of their Champions League qualifier at home on Wednesday with the tie locked at 1-1 from the first leg.

Valencia began their new era under owner Peter Lim with a 1-1 draw at Sevilla thanks to a late equaliser from Lucan Orban.

Sevilla, who are heavily fancied to take the fourth Champions League place this season, had gone in front a minute before half-time as debutant Aleix Vidal smashed home from close range. However, Valencia responded after the break and despite having Rodrigo de Paul sent-off were level two minutes from time when Orban bundled the ball home from a corner.

Espanyol also rescued a draw at Almeria at the death as Sergio Garcia's effort in the 13th minute of stoppage time handed them a 1-1 draw at Almeria.

The game had been delayed by a floodlight failure after Fernando Soriano had fired Almeria into a 52nd minute lead. And the Catalans made the most of the added time as Garcia's effort trickled into the far corner with virtually the last kick of the game to salvage a point.

Granada were the other winners of the opening day of the campaign as they game from behind to beat newly promoted Deportivo la Coruna at Nuevo Los Carmenes.

Balotelli set for EPL return

THE GUARDIAN

Mario Balotelli is set to seal his return to the Premier League within the next few days following constructive talks with Brendan Rodgers. Liverpool have agreed a £16m fee with Milan for the Italy international and a three-year contract worth a basic £80,000-a-week plus £40,000 in performance and behaviour incentives.

The deal, however, was dependent on the Liverpool manager being convinced of Balotelli's willingness to develop at Anfield and it is understood their meeting at Melwood training ground on Friday progressed well. The 24-year-old had the second part of his medical on Saturday before returning to Italy and is expected back on Merseyside to complete the transfer on Sunday or Monday. His contract includes an option for Liverpool to keep the former Internazionale and Manchester City forward for a fourth year.

A draw for Van Gaal

AFP, London

Manchester United secured their first Premier League point under Louis van Gaal, but were still left searching for a first competitive win of the Dutchman's reign, after a 1-1 draw away to Sunderland on Sunday.

United, fresh from their shock 2-1 defeat by Swansea at Old Trafford on the opening day last weekend, took a 17th-minute lead at the Stadium of Light when Juan Mata turned in Antonio Valencia's cross.

But former Manchester City midfielder Jack Rodwell equalised for Sunderland in the 30th minute when he headed in Seb Larsson's corner after evading marker Robin van Persie.

Gus Poyet's side caused a huge upset by winning 1-0 at Old Trafford in May as part of a 'great escape' that saw the north-east side avoid relegation.

But despite the urging of their Uruguayan manager, Sunderland couldn't manage a second goal, and nor could United, with van Gaal having said in midweek the team would need a "miracle" to win the league this season.

"The purpose of the game is to create more chances and score goals," Van Gaal told BBC Radio Five.

"We haven't created more chances, but in the second half we were more dominant than we were against Swansea. That's a plus, but we have to create more from that dominance.

Sunderland boss Poyet added: "A point is fair, I think so. We conceded a goal against the run of play a little bit.

"It's important we started better than last year (season) and that was key."

Earlier, Nacer Chadli scored twice as Tottenham Hotspur ensured there was no happy return to White Hart Lane for Harry Redknapp as they beat their former manager's Queens Park Rangers side 4-0.

Meanwhile 10-man Hull draw 1-1 at home to Stoke.

Chadli put Spurs ahead in the 12th minute when he thrashed home Emmanuel Adebayor's cross from six yards out.

Defender Eric Dier doubled Spurs' lead with his second goal in as many matches when he headed in Erik Lamela's corner at the near post on the half hour.

Tottenham went 3-0 up in the 37th minute.
