

JU ADMISSION FOR WARDS OF STAFF Students protest requirement easing

JU CORRESPONDENT

General students of Jahangirnagar University (JU) yesterday formed a human chain protesting the authority's decision to make the admission requirements easier following demonstrations by JU staff on August 29.

This will give the ward quota applicants more favours and will be discriminatory to general candidates, they said.

Protesting the ward quota system, they also demanded a common policy for all the applicants in the admission test.

According to the university rules, applicants under this quota—children, siblings and wife of JU teachers and staff—get grace marks if they fail to obtain 35 as the pass marks, while a general candidate has to obtain 70 to 80 percent marks in the admission test.

There is also no seat limitation for ward quota applicants and they can also choose any department.

Uzzwal Kumar Mondal, lecturer of journalism and media studies, said the quota system is clearly discriminatory and will adversely affect the higher studies.

Students alleged that JU authorities and some Chhatra League men threatened them asking to stop the demonstration.

Later, the students submitted a memorandum, which the VC accepted and assured the students of taking steps.

Rangpur city halts

Before the silence, at a rally in front of Rangpur Press Club, city Mayor Sharfuddin Ahmed Jhantu, also convener of the committee, claimed that although Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, at a city public rally on December 12, 2011, vowed to do everything needed for the development of Rangpur, she was yet to do anything in this regard.

He also threatened to go for a one hour token mass hunger strike this month if the demand is not met immediately.

The gas supply through pipeline has reached Bogra town and it is still 28km off Rangpur division comprising eight districts—Rangpur, Kurigram, Nilphamari, Gaibandha, Lalmonirhat, Dinajpur, Panchagarh and Thakurgaon.
