Buried in family graveyard at Moghbazar; his son does not seek forgiveness for father's war crimes; says lakhs like him will be born in the country
STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Ghulam Azam, the most prominent symbol of war crimes in Bangladesh, was buried as per his last wish beside his father's grave at his Moghbazar family graveyard beside his residence in the capital yesterday.
In an address, customary in Islam seeking forgiveness for the dead from the attendance before the namaz-e-janaza, his son Abdullahil Aman Azmi did not seek forgiveness for his father's genocidal crimes. Neither had the former Jamaat-e-Islami chief in his lifetime.
Instead, Azmi said, "He never consciously hurt anyone's feelings. If he has unintentionally done so, then forgive him...I beg the people of the country to forgive him if his words, behaviour or acts have personally hurt anyone."
Amidst strong vigilance of law enforcers, thousands of Jamaat-e-Islami leaders and activists attended the janaza at the Baitul Mukarram national mosque, conducted by Azmi.
His son and lawyers said Ghulam Azam had wanted his janaza be conducted by either Motiur Rahman Nizami, a convict in a smuggling case and a war crimes accused, or Delawar Hossain Sayeede, a war crimes convict, both serving jail terms.

An Indian national died at Dhaka Medical College Hospital yesterday after he had been found sick inside a hotel in the capital.
Biswajit Shil David, 40, was a businessman in Kolkata.
His Bangladeshi business partner Oheuzzaman said he took Biswajit to DMCH on information from the authorities of the hotel in Gulistan.
Paltan police Officer-in-charge Morshed Alam said the hotel authorities informed him that he was drunk.
A bottle of wine was recovered from his room, he said, adding that the reason behind his death could be known after autopsy.

allocated for mental health services.
So, government's budgetary allocation and other logistic arrangements should be augmented for better services, Monira added.
Addressing the function as chief guest, Women and Children Affairs Secretary Tariqul-Islam said Bangladesh Mental Health Act, 2014 must be passed immediately.
The Law Commission has recently drafted the act and has also uploaded it on its website seeking opinions and suggestions from all, said the commission's research officer Hasan Arifur Rahman, adding that it would later hold a national level consultation on recommendations and suggestions for finalisation.
Moniruzzaman, national professional officer of the World Health Organisation (WHO) in Bangladesh, prioritised the social aspect instead of medicine while providing counselling and treatment.

is written in the laws or the Constitution of the country".
Repressive laws are in force and the independence of the judiciary is under attack in a spree of politicisation of institutions of the state, he said.
Both Adilur and the government have come under fire centring the crackdown by law enforcers on Hefajat-e-Islam at the capital's Shapla Chattar on the night of May 5, 2013. Law enforcers on that night had flushed out several thousand Hefajat activists, who took to the streets and resorted to violence following the Dhaka siege programme in the daytime.
Odhikar in a report uploaded on its website claimed that 61 people were killed during the raid. Critics opposed Odhikar's position of refusing to give the information ministry details of the 61. They also accused the government of "arbitrary use of powers" and of "using a general diary" for the sudden arrest of Adilur at his Gulshan residence on the night of August 10, 2013.
Later, Adilur was accused in a case filed under the Information and Communication Technology Act, 2006 for tarnishing the image of the government, the state and law enforcers by publishing the "false report". On October 10, 1994, Adilur founded the human rights organisation Odhikar, which has undertaken extensive fact-finding and reporting of human rights violations in Bangladesh.
