

LAND EROSION BY JAMUNA IN GAIBANDHA HC seeks info from govt about stopping

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday directed the government to inform it about its actions to stop erosion by Jamuna river in Balashghat and Phuljhuri upazilas of Gaibandha in every six months.

The court passed the order after a writ petition filed by Bangladesh Environmental Lawyers Association (BELA) in 2013 seeking directives from it to stop the land erosion.

The HC bench of Justice Mirza Hussain Haider and Justice Md Ataur Rahman Khan passed the order after accepting a report submitted last week on its project to prevent the erosion, BELA's lawyer Iqbal Kabir Lytton told The Daily Star.

He said the water resources ministry and Bangladesh Water Development Board (BWDB) in the report said they have undertaken a four years' long project to prevent the erosion.

The ministry and BWDB are waiting for approval from the finance ministry to implement the project, said Lytton adding that they have to submit progress reports to the HC on the implementation of the project in every six months.

"It is appropriate in some ways that what little work I have done is not unrelated to the mission of the Rotary movement which basically brings together a community of well-established professionals and people from the business community to contribute from their resources and life's achievements which will in fact improve the condition of lives of those less privileged," he said.

Sir Fazle Hasan Abed, Prof Abdullah Abu Sayeed, Rtn Safina Rahman, District Governor, RI District 3281 Bangladesh; Ferdous Ahmed, Outgoing President, Rotary Club of Metropolitan Dhaka; and Rtn Forkan Bin Quasem, Incoming Club President, Rotary Club of Metropolitan Dhaka, were among the distinguished guests present at the function.

Poverty Reduction Programme-Experience of China", Prof Wang Libin talked about women and gender issues.

She stated that women in the past were lagging behind in terms of their right to education, property, decision making and others.

For instance, girls lost their right to property both in families of their parents and husbands on being married off, she said.

Moreover, less than one percent of around 660,000 villages had a committee headed by a female and around 80 percent of drop outs in schools of poverty-hit areas were girls, she said.

Over the years, different government approaches like policies, legal framework, special programmes targeting women, capacity building, training and education have contributed to address the problems and empower women, added the professor.

The government formulated National Outline for the Development of Chinese Women (2011-2020) targeting to ensure women leadership in 10 percent of the village committees, employing around 40 percent of women and ensuring completion of nine years of primary and secondary education for 95 percent of girls, she said.

Microcredit activities, which were introduced in 1994 in China, also helped poor women, she added.

However, poverty reduction, especially in rural areas, is still now considered the major challenge to accelerating the country's economic progress. Around 82 million people are suffering from poverty, the professors viewed.

The Daily Star Managing Editor Salehuddin Ahmed viewed that poverty, regional disparity and environment deterioration were the major challenges to the further economic development of China.

The Brac institute's Executive Director Sultan Hafeez Rahman moderated the function, attended by dozens of academicians, civil society members and students.

Pinky Chowdhury, general secretary of CNC Students' Welfare Association, said there was a notice about resuming classes which bore the principal's signature that meant she was still in charge.

"When we went to the director of Chittagong Medical College Hospital to learn the matter, he assured us that the principal will step down within a week," said Pinky, adding that they would resume their movement if the principal was not removed within a week.

Dr Mujibul Haque Khan, president of Bangladesh Medical Association, Chittagong, also a member of CNC Academic Council, said it takes some time to complete all the formalities and Hosne Ara, who had already applied for LPR, would not participate in any academic activity in this time.

CMCH's Director Brig Gen Khondokar Shahidul Ghani, also chairman of CNC Academic Council, could not be contacted over the phone despite several attempts.
