

Tazreen owner gets bail in fraud case

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Ctg

A Chittagong court granted bail to Delwar Hossain, owner of garment factory Tazreen Fashions, in a fraud case yesterday, a day after he was sent to jail in the case.

As lawyers of the complainant did not oppose the bail petition moved by defence lawyers, Metropolitan Magistrate Syed Mashfiqul Islam passed the order.

According to the case statement, Tazreen Fashions bought accessories worth around Tk 44.43 lakh from KDS Accessories Ltd in 2010-11, but made no payments. In December 2013, advocate Shimul Sen of KDS Group filed the case.

Govt's lack

Prof Anu Mohammad declared a countrywide demonstration on December 22 demanding compensation for the affected locals, bringing those responsible to book and banning plying of trading vessels and commercial activities in the Sundarbans.

The committee will form a committee comprising experts to measure the extent of the damage and monitor government moves.

Prof Anu Mohammad criticised Shipping Minister Shahjahan Khan for his recent "intentional" and "irresponsible" comment playing down the damage, saying, "He questioned whether the forest was more important than people."

He also criticised the government for not yet forming a committee to assess the damage to life and livelihoods.

510 turtles rescued

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Customs officials rescued 510 turtles, from being smuggled abroad, at Hazrat Shahjalal International Airport in the capital yesterday.

The turtles, known as Chitra Kachhim or Black Spotted Pond Turtle and worth Tk 20 lakh, would be handed over to the forest department, said Jewela Khatun, assistant commissioner of customs, at a press briefing.

especially the housing sector, was already short of 100,000 workers.

Sending away another 100,000 skilled workers would further fuel this shortage. "We will still be bringing in more foreign workers so it doesn't make sense to send them away," he said.

There was no response to attempts to engage and appeal to the government to "regularise" these workers and allow them to continue working, he said.

The Bangladesh High Commission in Kuala Lumpur states that of the four lakh Bangladeshis currently working there, at least 20,000 to 25,000 might be sent back.

Near Matsya Bhaban, the policemen, in plainclothes, stopped the bike and snatched the money, threatening them with arrest, said Dhaka Metropolitan Police.

Hearing the two screaming, pedestrians caught the two and handed them over to Shahbagh police after a good beating.

Police recovered around Tk 76,000 from them. A case was filed against the trio. Khalilur, former ASI of Motijheel Police Station, was supposed to join industrial police on December 4 but he did not do so.

Following the violence, six cases were filed against the Biharis for vandalism.

At the human chain, columnist Syed Abul Maksud said the incident has proven that the state failed to provide security to its people.

Nagorik Oikya convener Mahmudur Rahman Manna, among others, spoke.

Officer Mahmud Hossain said one barrier to internet use was a lack of content.

He hoped that the website would fill that void, providing access to a huge amount of content on the Liberation War to the young generation.

Inam Ahmed, deputy editor of the newspaper heading the non-profit project, said military archives of the country as well as India would be contacted for maps and documents related to the war.

"There will also be a system of outsourcing so that anyone with information or materials in their personal collection which has not been archived can share those with us," he said.

Reminiscing about March 26, 1971 after a rare video footage of the mass killing at Dhaka University was shown at the launching, Mahfuz Anam, editor and publisher of The Daily Star, said the newspaper was proud to be a part of the project.

He hoped that the project would become the most valuable, relevant and rich online portal of the Liberation War.

Kendro O Badhaybhumi, authored by Shakhawat Hossain Majnu and published in 1994, states of 78 mass killing and torture sites he found after the war.

Shakhawat opines that the Pahartali site could be preserved as the central one detailing all the others. "The government can acquire the privately owned lands to preserve them," he added.

Another book, Pramanno Dolil Muktijudhe Chattagram, of Prof Gazi Saleh Uddin published in 2012, lists 74 sites based on police cases, 45 of which are in government land, 22 in private and seven yet to be known.

A committee could be formed to preserve and look after the sites, suggested Dr Mahfuzur Rahman, presently researcher on the Liberation War who had led guerrilla operations in Chittagong city.

Chittagong district Deputy Commissioner Mesbah Uddin said their office identified 67 sites in 2010 and preserving those would be "expensive".

"We received a letter from the Liberation War affairs ministry last October asking for the current condition...We would send the list and description by this month. If the ministry allocates money, we will start preservation works," he said.

near Trish Gudam, a warehouse, in Barisal city. At the initiative of Deputy Commissioner of Barisal Shohidul Alam, the memorial was built for Tk 6 lakh.

Azizul joined the southern secretariat of Bangladesh government on March 27, 1971, which was set up the day before in the city by the local Liberation War organisers to operate all administrative works of the region.

He also supervised food supplies to freedom fighters and firearm training to young combatants at BIWTA office compound. In the aftermath of the November 12 cyclone of 1970, Azizul was sent to Bhola during the war to oversee relief works there.

On May 5, 1971, when he came to Barisal city to evacuate his family, he was captured by a Pakistani major before being tortured and shot dead the same day.

Shaheed Azizul was posthumously awarded Swadhinata Puroskar 2014.

SHAHEED MINAR LITTERED
The people of Barisal city will observe Victory Day today on the premises of Central Shaheed Minar, their main cultural hub, now littered with construction materials of the four-storey Bangabandhu auditorium building.

The piles of rods, rubbles leave a small space for organising cultural programmes.

Cultural activists said they requested the contractor, Momen Khan, a week ago to shift the materials elsewhere for the time being. Momen, however, said there was no place to relocate.
