

THE UGLY FACE OF POLITICS

TERROR acts in the name of political programmes have been plaguing the country for the better part of the current month. Mindless attacks on vehicles, general people and even on the law enforcers mark the ongoing indefinite blockade enforced by the BNP-led anti-government alliance. Innocents were burnt alive, vehicles set alight and trains derailed by blockaders looking to cripple the country. Even little children were not spared. With the government and the opposition pitted against one another in a bloody power game, cries for an end to this vicious violence are falling on deaf ears.
