

Jackson to Star in 'Miss Peregrine's Home for Peculiar Children'

Sam Jackson is in negotiations for the Tim Burton-directed Miss Peregrine's Home For Peculiar Children, which Fox and Chernin Entertainment are quickly mobilizing. Eva Green as the title character and Hugo's Asa Butterfield are the leads. Jackson will play Barron, a key role, but nobody will elaborate on whether he's good or bad. Jane Goldman adapted the Ransom Riggs novel. Fox will release March 4, 2016. Right now Jackson is starring for Quentin Tarantino in The Hateful Eight. He has The Avengers: Age Of Ultron coming this summer.

Colin Hanks To Star In 'Life In Pieces'

Coming off his Emmy- and Golden Globe-nominated turn on the FX miniseries Fargo, Colin Hanks has been cast as a lead in CBS' single-camera comedy pilot Life In Pieces. Written on spec by Justin Adler, the project, from 20th TV and Aaron Kaplan's Kapital Entertainment, is about one family as told through the separate stories of its different family members. Hanks plays Greg, the coddled youngest of three siblings who finds himself overwhelmed and unprepared for the birth of his first child.

Turning producer for 'NH10' a blessing: Anushka Sharma

Actress Anushka Sharma, who makes her debut as a producer in the upcoming road drama 'NH10', describes her new role as a blessing and says it gives her lot of happiness. The 26-year-old 'PK' star, who also plays the main lead in 'NH10', says it is a completely content driven film. "I can't differentiate myself between a producer and an actress. I want to involve with the film to the maximum as it's a content driven film." The film, directed by Navdeep Singh of 'Manorama Six Feet Under' fame, is co-produced by Phantom Films, Sunil and Krishika Lulla. As the film is releasing during the Cricket World Cup 2015, Anushka, who is dating new Indian Test captain Virat Kohli, said, "We will be promoting the film here (India) but if I go then you will see me there."
