HC bench refuses to hear bail petition of Jannati

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A High Court bench yesterday refused to hold the final hearing on a bail petition of young entrepreneur Jannati Hossain detained over the death of her business partner Mostamsir Ashraf.

The bench also dropped the petition from its hearing list.

It did not mention the reason for the refusal but advised the petitioner to go to another bench for hearing, Assistant Attorney General Mohammad Ali Zinnah told The Daily Star.

On July 11 last year, Jannati crashed Mostamsir's car into a parked police van near Mohakhali flyover. Mostamsir, who was beside her, was gravely injured and died on the way to hospital, police said. Tejgaon police sued her for reckless driving.

Mostamsir was the son of Khan Mohammad Abdul Mannan, a former district court judge and now serving as the inspector general of registration (ofland).

Ten days after the accident, Mostamsir's family lodged a murder case against Jannati, her husband, her father and her two brothers, accusing her of killing Mostamsir in a planned way to take over the business.

Of the 15 people named as prosecution witnesses, four are high-flying government officials.

Her lawyer said he would move the petition before another bench soon.

Jannati and Mostamsir launched Echo Sparks, a music cafe and gaming zone, in Uttara in December last year.

managing director of Al Muslim Builders, said the Amin Mohammad City authorities now cannot build any structure or sell plots under the project and not even advertise for those.

According to National Survey Organisation, Amin Mohammad City has 30.911 acres of land inside the project. But the housing company, showing details of 30 acres of land which belong to Al Muslim Builders, claimed that they have 115.66 acres of land near the highway and got the EIA certificate from the Department of Environment on last July 8 for the project.

As per Section 7 (1) of Private Housing Project Land Development Rules, an entrepreneur has to own at least 70 percent of land under his/her housing project but Amin Mohammad City has only 32.66 percent, he added.

Al Muslim Builders was also directed to maintain status quo.

security of domestic helps, Mosharraf said the workers would be allowed to use cellphones there so that they could contact their families and people concerned.

Prof Tasneem Siddique, founding chairperson of the Refugee and Migratory Movements Research Unit (RMMRU), welcomed the move.

She told The Daily Star, "The government needs to set up shelter houses at all manpower receiving countries including Saudi Arabia so that any victim can find immediate protection."

"As neither our labour wing officials nor the employing countries' police can respond to the victims instantly, the government needs to introduce a system in Bangladesh to monitor this issue," she said, also calling for payment of the female workers through banks.

On February 10, Riyadh signed an agreement with Dhaka to hire 10,000 skilled Bangladeshi house maids in March.

Meanwhile, the Saudi government plans to offer a new general amnesty in March for illegal foreign workers to rectify their visa status, reported the Saudi Gazette.

Officials at the Bangladesh mission in Riyadh, however, said only 20,000 or 25,000 Bangladeshi workers might be working there illegally now.

FIGHTING CLIMATE CHANGE

Workshop urges greater coordination

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Bangladesh, which is one of the most climate-vulnerable countries, needs to have a greater coordination and an effective approach to address its increasing environmental challenges, speakers said at a workshop yesterday.

The workshop on the Country Investment Plan (CIP) for Environment, Forestry and Climate Change Sectors was held at a hotel in the capital.

Under a project titled "Strengthening the Environment, Forestry and Climate Change Capacities" of the Ministry of Environment and Forests, and its agencies, the CIP is being developed to coordinate among all environment protection programmes in Bangladesh. The CIP will be prepared by the end of this year.

Addressing as chief guest, Dr Kamal Uddin Ahmed, secretary to the ministry, said only developing the CIP was not enough rather there was a lot more to do for translating the policies into practices in order to get tangible results. But the CIP can help address the possible problems in this regard, he added.

Nurul Karim, additional secretary (environment) to the ministry; Mike Robson, representative of Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) of the UN; Janina Jaruzelski, mission director of USAID; Abdullah Al Mohsin Chowdhury, the project director, and Dr Prabhu Budhathoki, chief technical adviser to the project, also spoke.

The ministry with assistance from FAO and USAID is implementing the project.
