Kevin Spacey to get special Olivier award

US actor and director Kevin Spacey will be honoured with a special prize at this year's Olivier Awards. The Oscar-winner is being honoured for his outstanding contribution to the Old Vic, where he became artistic director in 2004. He is widely credited with reviving the theatre's fortunes, and steps down later this year.

The 55-year-old is famous for his film and TV roles in "American Beauty" and "House of Cards".

Spacey's final performance as the Old Vic's artistic director will see him revive his title role in Clarence Darrow, his first one-man play.

Spacey's film work includes "The Usual Suspects", for which he received a best supporting actor Oscar in 1996, as well as "LA Confidential", "Seven" and "Gangs of New York". He won a best actor Oscar for "American Beauty" in 2000 and recently won his first Golden Globe, for "House of Cards", after seven previous nominations.

The Olivier Awards, established in 1976 and named after Laurence Olivier, are the UK's most prestigious stage honours.

A tale of two sisters

LAILA HASAN AND DAISY AHMED

A CORRESPONDENT

Star siblings Laila Hasan and Daisy Ahmed are an upbeat duo. Laila a well known dancer and actor, is married to veteran actor Hasan Imam, while Daisy Ahmed, wife of noted actor Bulbul Ahmed, is a singer and actress. Laila and Daisy shared little known tidbits about their great bonding:

Where did you spend your childhood?

Laila Hasan: We are seven siblings.

Though we grew up in Dhaka, we stayed in various places before we settled down here, because of our father's profession.

What is the relationship like between you two?

Daisy Ahmed: I am closer to her than my other brother and sisters, as we are immediate siblings. We used to do everything together, though we did have arguments every once in a while. Even today, we share the same taste in clothing and many other things.

Any childhood story you want to share?

Laila Hasan: My sister used to be skinny and I was the chubby one. While sitting in a rickshaw she always refused to keep me on her lap and vice versa. We still enjoy a good laugh when we recall those times.

Have either of you received a scolding on account of the other?

Laila Hasan: Since our childhood, she has always been a good student. I was constantly scolded because of this.

Daisy Ahmed: My sister was known as the calm and quiet one. She always wanted to share my dresses, which I never liked. I used to get a thorough scolding from my mother because of my furious reactions.

Why did one of you choose to be a singer and the other a dancer?

Daisy Ahmed: I chose singing over dancing because Laila is more energetic and enthusiastic. Plus singing takes less physical effort.

What do you like most about your sister?

Laila Hasan: Her spirituality. Since our childhood, I have appreciated her spirituality and her caring temperament which bound all of us in a common thread.

Daisy Ahmed: Her down-to-earth behaviour amazes me. She is caring and loving even though she is very much an introvert.

What is your view regarding new generation dancers and are you still linked with dancing?

Laila: I hold a very positive view because the new generation is very advanced and keen to explore. Moreover, now I am advisor of Bangladesh Nritya Shilpi Shangsta plus I maintain a dance troupe that performs in various places.

How did you join acting? Are you still working?

Daisy: I started acting during my college days. Subsequently, the interest kept growing as I studied Bengali literature. After getting married, I got the opportunity to work for my husband's production house. Eventually I got associated with various projects produced by various organisers. Recently, I have worked in various series such as "Aw er golpo", "Pogga Paromita", "House Full", "Radio Chocolate" and others. Other than that, I perform at Bangladesh Betar as well.

IT'S TRUE!

Marilyn Monroe, one of the most discussed film stars of all time, was poorly paid throughout her career. Though she couldn't overcome her financial distress, Monroe went on to become of the most popular Hollywood heroines. In 1962, she was fired by Twentieth-Century Fox from the production of "Something's Got to Give" because of her chronic lateness and absence during first two weeks of shooting. Later, just four days prior to her death, Monroe was rehired by Fox on a $1million deal. She died poor, but at present her estate makes around five million dollars a year.

Ishana's GAME PLAN

SHAH ALAM SHAZU

Former Lux Superstar Ishana's career is skyrocketing. An acclaimed actress and model, she is currently busy with shoots for TV plays. In a recent conversation with The Daily Star, the multi-talented artiste spoke about her many assignments

Tell us about your latest telefilm...

Ishana: I worked with film actor Riaz in the telefilm "Kath Golaper Sunnata", directed by Minhazul Islam Abhi.

Any recent challenges?

Ishana: I recently shot for a TV play where I enacted the roles of Haimonti, Kumu and Maloti --three famous characters drawn from Rabindranth Tagore's works. The yet-untitled TV play was really very challenging.

Is there a character you have played for the first time?

Ishana: I recently enacted the part of a beggar in the play "Trirotno". Though I've always been offered glamorous roles, it was quite a change as I had to act without any make up.

Your mega serial "Khanikaloy" is about to wrap up?

Ishana: It has aired on Maasrange for about three years. It has been amazing and a one-of-its-kind experience. When I was on the sets, it seemed that the cast and crew were my second family.

What about your new serial?

Ishana: I recently signed up for a series "Samrat", directed by Sayed Shakil. Here I will play the role of psycho, co-starring with Apurbo.

What is your game plan career wise?

Ishana: I have no plan. I certainly want to work till the very end but it will all depend on the continued goodwill of my fans and challenging plots.
