

Mission Impossible 5

COMING IN SUMMER 2015

Paramount Pictures has confirmed that Mission: Impossible 5 will receive the IMAX treatment when it hits theaters on July 31, 2015. The film – directed by Christopher McQuarrie (Jack Reacher) – will star Tom Cruise and returning teammates Jeremy Renner, Simon Pegg and Ving Rhames as well as Alec Baldwin, Rebecca Ferguson and Sean Harris. While this cast was more or less reported on previously, this update confirms that Paula Patton will be the sole member of the core team from Mission: Impossible – Ghost Protocol to not return for this follow-up.

HACKSAW RIDGE

Mel Gibson's first directorial since 2006

Lionsgate Films is in final talks to acquire North American distribution rights for Mel Gibson's latest directorial effort, Hacksaw Ridge. The film – which stars former Amazing Spider-Man Andrew Garfield – marks Gibson's first film as a director since Apocalypto in 2006. Hacksaw Ridge tells the true story of war hero Desmond T. Doss (Garfield), who was the first objector in American military history to receive the Medal of Honor despite his refusal to bear arms for religious reasons. Details of the deal with Lionsgate haven't been disclosed, but estimates place it as high as $15 million. Robert Schenkkan (The Pacific) and Randall Wallace (We Were Soldiers) wrote the film.

KING ARTHUR

Guy Ritchie's next film franchise

Like the Sherlock Holmes film series, the recent take on King Arthur intends to jumpstart a series of films, though there's no telling if Guy Ritchie aims to remain actively involved in prospective sequels. At this time, no plot details have been released for Knights of the Round Table. However, it's likely that the villain will serve as an origin story for the legendary king. Joby Harold – who wrote and directed 2007 thriller Awake – penned the script for this movie. Eric Bana has joined the cast as Uther, Arthur's father, in the Warner Bros. film. Charlie Hunnam (Pacific Rim) is set to play Arthur, with Astrid Berges-Frisbey as Guinevere. Jude Law – who played Watson in both of Ritchie's Sherlock Holmes films – is still reportedly in talks to play the villain.

EXES RANBIR, DEEPIKA

enjoys shooting together

Bollywood glam doll Deepika Padukone and Ranbir Kapoor have been hogging the limelight because of their upcoming movie called 'Tamasha'. Well the couple's love story is not hidden from any. Post the rough patch they seem to have moved on and are happy together sharing the sets for their upcoming film, reportedly. Ranbir and Deepika were previously seen together in 'Bachna Ae Haseeno' and 'Ye Jawani Hai Deewani' which did very well at the Box Office. But, actor Ranbir's last two movies have not reached the magical mark with 'Besharam' and 'Roy'. Let us see if Deepika becomes his lucky mascot yet again and vice versa.
