

BOMBAY VELVET

has kisses in abundance for Ranbir Kapoor, Anushka Sharma?

One of the most anticipated films of the year – 'Bombay Velvet' – starring Ranbir Kapoor, Anushka Sharma and Karan Johar, has been in news since its inception. Directed by Anurag Kashyap, the period film set in the 1960s, will see passionate romance between Ranbir and Anushka's characters – Johnny Balraj and Rosie Noronha respectively. And if the latest buzz is anything to go by, then there are as many as 7 lip-lock scenes between the two in the film. This is for the first time, Ranbir and Anushka will be sharing screen space with each other. And the two are already making headlines over their onscreen chemistry. Based on Gyan Prakash's book 'Mumbai Fables', 'Bombay Velvet' set in the early 1960's, will see Ranbir as a street fighter and Anushka as a Jazz singer. The screenplay is jointly written by Anurag Kashyap, Karan Johar and Vikramaditya Motwane. The film also features Karan Johar (in a negative role), Remo Fernandes, Kay Kay Menon, Vivaan Shah and others. Produced by Phantom Films and Fox Star Studios, 'Bombay Velvet' is slated to release on May 15, 2015.

The actor had originally posted the picture on photo-sharing site Instagram (@shahidkapoor), where he has made some innovative use of the ice-cube stand. Check out the picture to understand how!

'Rocky Handsome' a step ahead of 'Force':

JOHN ABRAHAM

Actor John Abraham, who impressed with his action packed performance in the film "Force", says his next "Rocky Handsome" is a step ahead of the former film. He said that the new film promises great intensity and "never-seen-before" action during the cover page launch of Mens Health magazine. "Audiences can expect a lot of action, lot of body (show)...lot of stunts and great intensity," he added. "Rocky Handsome" is an action-thriller being directed by Nishikant Kamat. An adaptation of the Korean film "The Man from Nowhere", it features John as a killing machine. John believes the movie is a great solo film for him.
