

MAY DAY?

THE heat and soot of the tiny cramped workshop get to them and they have to reach for the window just to have a breath of fresh air once in a while. The blaze of the furnace, the dimly lit room, and unhealthy working environment take a toll on grown up workers, let alone the ones who should be in school. With no protective gear whatsoever, they hammer away for their livelihood. Today is May Day but some of the workers there did not even know what it was for. The photos were taken at a workshop of Jatrabari in the capital.

Photo: ANISUR RAHMAN

