look in true-story
gangster movie "Black Mass" has arrived

It shows the 51-year-old actor almost unrecognisable with thinning hair as Boston's notorious crime boss Whitey Bulger. He is seen walking away from a body while carrying a gun in one of his hands, reported Ace Showbiz. "He murdered him in front of numerous witnesses in broad daylight," director Scott Cooper said. "In a word, Whitey was brazen." He also said of the criminal, "He could be charming. He could be ruthless. He was like a cobra - you never knew where he could strike." Bulger was an FBI informant in taking down a Mafia family who invaded his turf. However, he was later outed as a criminal himself and went into hiding when the Feds closed in on their targets. He became a fugitive for years before being arrested in 2011.

SYLVESTER STALLONE banned daughters from dating

Actor Sylvester Stallone has banned his three teenage daughters from dating until they are in their 40s. The 'Expendables' actor, who has Sophia, 18, Sistine, 16, and Scarlet, 13, with wife Jennifer Flavin, realised he wasn't going to be an "accepting" father when his eldest daughter was called by a boy four years ago, reports femalefirst.co.uk. "I told my three daughters they weren't allowed to date until their mid-40s but that's not going down well... The first time a boy called Sophia was when she was 14. I realised I wasn't going to be an accepting father. The 68-year-old star admits his daughters haven't listened to his warning and he ended up in a "battle" with Sophia's current boyfriend when they met for the first time. "I've finally met Sophia's first boyfriend. He's 18. We shook hands and I said, 'No, you've got to learn to squeeze harder than that pal.' We got into a hand-squeezing battle," he said. Despite his celebrity status, the "Rocky" star's daughters are embarrassed to be seen with him and don't even like him dropping them off at school. Asked if he is an embarrassing dad, he admitted: "Very. If I'm within a mile of them it's like, 'Dad, can you please wear a disguise?' I say, 'Can I drop you off at school?' They say, 'No, we're going to take the bus'. "Everyone at their school is happy to see me but them. But it happens with celebrity parents. I'm going to go dressed as Michael Douglas next time."
