FROM LS DESK

STYLE is 15

In the last 15 years that has passed, Star Lifestyle evolved into your popular Tuesday read. This we owe to our valued readers, who have been our source of inspiration throughout. Our readers have always kept a watchful eye and have guided us in this remarkable journey. We would like to reiterate that your comments and opinions are of great value to us and have helped mould LS into its present form. In fact, it could be said that Star Lifestyle has even grown with its users. As the years progressed our themes, our ideas and our identity itself has also matured and we have tried our best to enrich our content and our entire look.

To survive, everything must evolve. And we hope in the years ahead we will continue to receive your heartiest

Kudos to our excellent panel of columnists; their soaring popularity speaking volumes for their ability to present baffling problems in lucid terms. A word of thanks for our recipe writers who have been the lifeblood of the magazine for 15 odd years.

And lastly, we would like to thank our patrons and well wishers. Without your assistance a newspaper, any newspaper, cannot survive. We hope that our collaboration with our advertisers will remain and will help us re-shape according to the tests of time. So here's to fifteen and more.

BENGAL CINEMATHEQUE — LA NOTTE (ANTONIONI), DAYS OF HEAVEN (MALICK)

Date: 6-7 June
Venue: Daily Star-Bengal Arts Precinct, 64-65 Kazi Nazrul Islam Avenue, Kawran Bazaar

Bengal Cinematheque invites you to the third and last month of their inaugural cycle of films focused on the nature of the spirit.

La Notte (to be shown on Saturday, 6 June 2015, at 6.30pm) is a story about a husband and a wife suffering in a stilted, sick marriage. The film mirrors this in the intellectual ecology they inhabit. A friend dies in moral agony. They go to a decadent party and the night becomes wild. They both stray and play games until dawn. Neither knows what they mean to each other but they feel both dependent and apart.

Days of Heaven (to be shown on Sunday, 7 June 2015, at 6.30pm) is set out in the golden plains of 19th century America, focusing on the drifting communities that farm the land of rich farmers. A secretive young couple in love and a child narrator are involved in a gothic plot to steal the lands of a dying farmer. Love is confused by greed and godlike nature is unmoved by tragedies.

Bengal Cinematheque presents the films and ideas of cinema's greatest auteurs, shown at the highest quality, to help build a community of emerging filmmakers, writers and programmers in Bangladesh.

Entry is free. Doors close at 6:30pm.
