

Public university teachers cut class for own payscale

Teachers of different public universities in five districts observed two-hour work abstention protesting against the proposed 8th national payscale and demanded a separate one yesterday.

Termining the proposed payscale "disgraceful and discriminatory" for university teachers, Dhaka University Teachers' Association staged a sit-in at the historic Bat-tala of the university after the work abstention.

Teachers under Rajshahi University Teachers' Association held a protest rally after the work abstention in front of the senate bhaban.

Meanwhile, teachers' associations in Sylhet Agricultural University, Begum Rokeya University in Rangpur, and Chittagong University also observed the work abstention.

The protest programme was observed as per the decision of the Federation of Bangladesh University Teachers' Association (FBUTA), taken on Friday.

DHAKA GANG-RAPE IN VEHICLE Demand for highest penalty still ringing

Cops again bar protesters from reaching home ministry

Police yesterday barred protesters heading to besiege the home ministry at Bangladesh Secretariat, demanding the maximum punishment for those who gang-raped a Garo woman in the capital on May 21.

A procession of the agitators was stopped near Curzon Hall of Dhaka University around 11:50am. Faced with barbwire barricades, the protestors scuffled with the cops and subsequently staged a sit-in there till 12:30pm. They started off from Aparajeyo Bangla.

On May 27, Rapid Action Battalion (Rab) arrested two people -- Ashraf Khan alias Tushar and Jahidul Islam Lavlu -- and said the duo gang-raped the 21-year-old woman in a moving microbus. The two were drivers of a buying house and lured her with a job.

The elite force rejected the victim's claim in the case that there were five rapists.

Bangladesh Garo Chhatra Sangathan, Bangladesh Hajong Chhatra Sangathan, Chanchia (a platform of Garo people), and Bangladesh Chhatra Federation jointly organised the demonstration, also demanding immediate arrest of the "three other rapists".

Earlier, arrestee Ashraf confessed before a court that he and Lavlu took turns committing the crime in the moving vehicle and said there was no other person.

Nilphamari teacher stabbed in capital

Two unknown miscreants stabbed a schoolteacher in the throat at a residential hotel in the capital's Moghbazar last night, leaving him critically injured.

Jagodish Chandra Roy, 41, who teaches at Bangabandhu High School in Syedpur of Nilphamari, was admitted to Dhaka Medical College Hospital around 9:00pm.

Quoting two staff of the hotel, Parash, who were picked up for interrogation, Ramna police Sub-inspector Enamul Haque told The Daily Star that the miscreants attacked Jagodish while he was entering his room on the fourth floor.

The reason of the attack was not immediately known.

Jamaat leaders -- Rafiqul Islam Khan, the then acting secretary general; Hamidur Rahman Azad, a then lawmaker, and Selim Uddin, the then Dhaka city unit assistant secretary general.

It was for their comments and statement on February 4, 2013, a day before another Jamaat leader, Abdul Quader Mollah, was sentenced to life imprisonment. The three had threatened to start a "civil war" if the verdict went against Quader.

On February 7, 2013, the tribunal asked the three to explain their words. But they did not appear, prompting the tribunal to issue arrest warrants.

Police arrested Selim but failed to arrest the duo, claiming they were fugitives although Azad joined parliament sessions and public meetings.

The tribunal on June 9, 2013 found the three guilty. It leniently let off Selim as he sought unconditional apology, keeping him standing till the court rose that day. It jailed the duo for three months and fined them Tk 3,000.

As per Jamaat sources, the duo still live in Dhaka. Their statements have regularly appeared in newspapers, especially Jamaat's mouthpiece, the daily Sangram.

rivals. And, now, the government uses extrajudicial executions against the opposition to weaken political counterparts," it added.

It said the prevailing culture of impunity, coupled with incapability of the criminal justice institutions failed to provide justice to the victim families, who also faced social stigma as law enforcement agencies branded their murdered relatives as criminals.

The organisations stated that successful prosecution against any extrajudicial executioners, all of who were members of law enforcement agencies, never took place.

"Rather authorities deny the aggrieved families access to the complaints mechanisms, through constant threat and intimidation," stated the submission.

They viewed the absence of a competent criminal justice system as the main reason behind the "gross" human rights violations and called on the UNHRC to reshape its mechanisms in Bangladesh and meet the needs of victims.

"The reforms of the justice institutions should result in enabling the people to trust the system; they should find it useful, efficient, and affordable."
