

Communication of police to become digital wireless

Home boss tells JS
STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The government has taken projects to bring the overall policing under digital wireless communication system, State Minister for Home Affairs Asaduzzaman Khan Kamal told parliament yesterday.

"Dhaka, Rajshahi and Sylhet divisions have already been brought under digital wireless communication system," Khan said while replying to lawmakers' queries.

Kamal said the police department had also launched the system in Rangpur and Gaibandha on a trial basis. Besides, initiatives are underway for procuring eight Channel Digital Trunking System equipment to modernise the Chittagong Metropolitan Police wireless communication system, he added.

Kamal said the government was working to bring two more divisions under the digital system in the current fiscal.

He also said the government had installed computers having Internet facilities at 43 wireless units out of 70 of Bangladesh Police for sending SMS.

"The installation of computers with Internet facilities at the remaining 27 units is underway."

ANANTA MURDER Held photo journo denied bail again

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Moulvibazar

A Sylhet court yesterday again denied bail to photojournalist Idris Ali in a case filed over the murder of blogger Ananta Bijoy Das.

Farhana Yasmin, judge of Sylhet Metropolitan Magistrate Court 2, passed the order. Earlier on June 17, the same court denied bail to Idris Ali.

On June 15, Idris, a photojournalist for local newspaper The Sobuj Sylhet and The Daily Songbad, was sent to jail at the end of a seven-day remand.

Ananta Bijoy Dash was hacked to death in Sylhet's Subidbazar area on May 12. On May 25, the investigation was handed over to the CID's organised crime unit.

Gridlocks have become a regular sight in the capital again with the start of Ramadan. The photo was taken between Sonargaon hotel and Bangla Motor intersections yesterday.

Noted columnist Syed Abul Maksud said there is risk of the oil spreading to the Halda, a major breeding ground for sweet-water fish. If the oil reaches Halda, a large number of fishes would be killed, he added.
