Commuters facing triple blow on Ctg road

ARUN BIKASH DEY, Ctg

Travelling on the 1.5-kilometre KB Aman Ali Road, from Chawk Bazar kitchen market to Rahattar Pool in Chittagong city, has become a nightmare to people due to potholes, open dustbins, and absence of footpaths.

The road is regularly used by almost a thousand students of around 20 private and government schools and colleges in West Bakalia area, apart from the locals.

Moreover, the Chawk Bazar kitchen market, the only kitchen market of the area, located at the entryway makes the road even busier with buyers.

Over the decades, the number of residents and commuters has increased but the 12-feet wide road, which connects Chawk Bazar to Chittagong-Cox's Bazar highway, has not been expanded, alleged locals.

While visiting the area this correspondent saw around a half-kilometre of the road from Teachers' Training College to Bhola Shah Major Gate area was riddled with potholes.

In Pura Chartola area, pedestrians were seen walking through the garbage scattered on the tattered road, as there is no footpath to walk on.

From Chawk Bazar kitchen market to Pashchim Bakalia Government Primary School, vendors occupy a large portion of the road leaving very little space for commuters.

Locals expressed their dissatisfaction, saying sometimes the conservancy workers of Chittagong City Corporation (CCC) collect garbage from the roadside drains and pile it up on the road.

During the monsoon, it makes the road slippery and dirty and heavy downpours increase commuters' sufferings, they added.

Sunil Chowdhury, a retired government official living in Rahattar Pool area, said though doctors advised him to walk, he finds it very difficult and risky due to a lack of footpaths.

Even riding a rickshaw or any other vehicle is uncomfortable due to its battered state, persisting for seven to eight months.

Parvez Alam, a banker, alleged that CCC officials turned a blind eye to the sorry state of the road which should be repaired and expanded with footpath facilities.

Tarana Sharmin, a teacher, alleged that a footpath was built on the bank of Chaktai Khal in Chawk Bazar several months back but soon afterwards vendors occupied it, leaving no space for pedestrians.

She urged the authorities to evict the vendors and open the footpath to commuters.

AKM Jafrul Islam, councillor of ward no-17, said locals complained that commuters are getting injured by falling off rickshaws due to the potholes.

He, however, claimed that upon receiving complaints, CCC filled many of the potholes and would fill the rest soon.

Admitting that the road needs to be expanded with footpath facilities, Jafrul said he would discuss the matter with the mayor.

Contacted, Mayor AJM Nasir Uddin told The Daily Star that he was unaware of the sorry state of the road.

He said he would ask CCC officials to fill in the potholes and clear the footpaths.

Regarding cleanliness, Nasir said he has already instructed the conservancy workers to clean all dustbins timely.

(1961-1971)", President of Chhayanaut Dr Sanjida Khatun described how cultural movement grew and spread throughout the country gradually even during the oppressive regimes of then Pakistan.

Speaker of the Jatiya Sangsad Dr Shirin Sharmin Chaudhury said mass movement always got strength from cultural movement. She hoped that the government would take steps to get March 25 recognised as "Mass Killing Day".

On that day in 1971, the Pakistani military started murdering unarmed Bangladeshis.

Historian Muntassir Mamoon said, "If fundamentalists and militants exist, then what is the point of GDP growth?"

"For about 30 years, BNP-Jamaat sowed their ideologies in people but the incumbent government has failed to sow its. Education, culture and Liberation War affairs ministries will have to take the responsibility of this failure," he said.

The professor said the trial of war criminals had given a scope to unmask the character of Jamaat leaders but no leaders except Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina was committed to trying the criminals.

Commemorating Jahanara Imam, Prof Ajoy Roy said, "If she were not born, perhaps no movement against the war criminals would be launched. We should be thankful to her."

Slamming the government, he said, "Bloggers are being killed one after another but we've not seen any reaction from the government." Killers were identified in the CCTV cameras, but they are not being arrested, he said. "Is it intentional?" he asked.
