

Senate members with expired tenure get into JU syndicate

JU CORRESPONDENT
 The Jahangirnagar University senate yesterday inducted two of its members into the syndicate and one into the finance committee though their memberships expired years ago.
 Some teachers called the induction "unethical" and "undemocratic".
 The senate unanimously accepted Prof Shariff Enamul Kabir, former vice chancellor of the university, and Md Motaher Hossain Mollah as syndicate members, and AHM Sadrul Alam Harun as member of the finance committee.
 Sixty-three out of the 93 members of the senate completed their tenures at least two years ago, and election is long overdue to the senate in different categories including teachers' representatives, registered graduates, and members of JU Central Students Union (Jucus).

Gtv News editor remanded for 'torturing wife'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT
 A Dhaka court yesterday placed the news editor of Gtv on a one-day remand after he was arrested in a case filed for torturing his wife and demanding dowry from her.
 Rakibul Islam alias Mukul, 37, was arrested in Segunbagicha around 2:30am, said Masud Parvez, a sub-inspector of Mirpur Model Police Station.
 Metropolitan Magistrate Amit Kumar Dey passed the order after police produced Mukul before the court with a seven-day remand prayer.
 Mukul's wife Naznin Akhter Tonni, senior reporter of Dainik Janakantha, filed the case on Thursday.
 Another woman was also accused in the case, the police official said.
 Naznin said her husband had been torturing her since August last year.
 "He kicked and slapped me even when I was pregnant. He beat me up frequently for no reason. Such physical torture caused early delivery of my baby," she claimed adding that a few months ago she learned that her husband had been having an affair with another woman for over a year.

Cyber security act to hugely curb freedom of expression

Lawyers tell discussion
STAFF CORRESPONDENT
 The proposed Cyber Security Act 2015 will significantly curb people's freedom of expression on the internet and keep them in fear, lawyers told a views exchange meeting yesterday.
 If enacted, it will go down in history as a draconian law, they said.
 Supreme Court lawyer Barrister Jyotirmoy Barua said the existing Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Act 2006 had failed to stop organised attacks on minorities on multiple occasions, and it was applied to threaten so-called atheist bloggers.
 Judging from how the ICT act was used, it is understandable that religious fanatics who spread hate speech on social media would never have to face this new law as well, he told the discussion organised at the capital's Jatiya Press Club under the banner of "Moulik Odhikar Shurakkha Committee".
 Barrister Sara Hossain, however, said the bill had some commendable inclusions like prohibitions on child porn and spreading personal pictures online.
 "But the scope of the law is limited to cyber space only. Crimes committed outside cyber space would remain beyond its purview," she said.
 Another SC lawyer, Asaduzzaman, said the draft included every "malicious and oppressive" element of the ICT act.
 "It is clear that the aim of this bill is to keep people in fear. Rather than preventing online communalism, the act would be used to silence voices against the ruling party."
 Citing Article 24 of the bill, Executive Director of Law Life Culture Rezaur Rahman said its sweeping scope violated freedom of expression and could be used to purge virtually anything the government did not like.
 He added that the draft raised serious concerns about unrestrained government access to private communications which would breach people's right to privacy.
 Quoting Article 24, he also said it enabled broad government powers of censorship, including authorising blocking or removing online content if it considered it "necessary in the interest state or the integrity, security or defence of Bangladesh or any part thereof, friendly relations with foreign states, public order, decency or morality, or in relation to contempt of court or commission of or incitement to an offence under this Act."

Sufia Kamal, Jahanara Imam's ideals needed to fight terrorism

Liberation War Museum discussion told
STAFF CORRESPONDENT
 Although the two great personalities are no more, the nation will always remain grateful to them for their contribution to upholding the Liberation War's spirit and saturating the society with it. And they are Janani Sahasika Poet Sufia Kamal and Shaheed Janani Jahanara Imam, said discussants yesterday.
 The two courageous women led the nation to press home the demand for war criminals' trials, speakers added at the discussion organised by Liberation War Museum (LWM) in its auditorium in the capital to pay tribute to the maverick personalities.
 Eminent journalist Abed Khan said Sufia Kamal never bowed before injustice, not even before the military dictator Field Marshall Ayub Khan in 1971.
 Sarwar Ali, a trustee of LWM, said the poet did not only fight for women's rights but also for establishing the rights of the destitute.
 The name that comes first when war crimes trial is discussed is Jahanara Imam, mentioned Abed.
 In the early 90s, Jahanara Imam united every political, social and cultural force, associated with the Liberation War, to realise the demand for war crimes trial and played a leading role in the formation of Gonoadalat for trying Ghulam Azam.
 But the then BNP government charged Jahanara and 23 other people with treason, said the speakers.
 Rafiqul Islam, programme coordinator of LWM, moderated the programme, where Tureen Afroz, a prosecutor of the International Crimes Tribunal, also spoke.
