Stamford organises iftaar for the underprivileged

FARAHNAAZ FERDUS

Stamford University Volunteers organised a fund raiser within their campus from July 4 to July 7, 2015. All teachers and staff contributed generously. All the funds raised were used to provide iftaar for the students of the street school run by Live for Change on July 8. The students of the school are all street dwellers living in rail stations and slums near the city's main airport. Stamford University Volunteers and the students of the school enjoyed iftaar together and talked about the importance of education. Both the volunteers and the students of the school enjoyed their time together. Volunteers sincerely thank all the staff and teachers who have helped them make this program possible.
