Only 979 want to leave for India

Rest of inhabitants in Indian enclaves inside Bangladesh to stay; none coming from Bangladesh enclaves inside India

STAR REPORT

No dweller of the 51 enclaves in Indian territory wants to come to Bangladesh while just 979 residents of the 111 enclaves inside Bangladesh are willing to go to India, say officials.

Almonirhat Deputy Commissioner Habibur Rahman, who led a five-member Bangladesh delegation at a meeting with the Indian side yesterday, confirmed it to The Daily Star.

According to the 2011 census, 14,215 people live in the 51 Bangladeshi enclaves in India while 37,369 people live in the 111 Indian enclaves inside Bangladesh.

Officials of the two countries held yesterday's meeting on Changrabandha border in India's Cooch Behar district to finalise the nationality of enclave dwellers based on their choice of citizenship.

They exchanged data of the joint survey, conducted in the enclaves from July 6 to 16, as well as information on the enclave dwellers, land area and dwellers' choice of nationality, reports our Kolkata correspondent quoting Cooch Behar District Magistrate P Ulaganathan.

The officials, however, didn't disclose the latest figures of enclave dwellers.

The joint survey followed the signing of a protocol by the two countries last month to ratify the Land Boundary Agreement (LBA). It will bring an end to the long-standing unresolved issue of nationality of thousands of enclave residents.

Rain dampens Eid holidays

6 killed in rain-induced landslides in Ctg

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Incessant rain dimmed the Eid festivities across the country. People found it hard to step out of their homes as many roads, especially those in the capital, went under water following three days of rain.

Worse, six lives perished in rain-triggered landslides in Chittagong on Sunday, just a day after the country's biggest

Inadequate services at understaffed hospitals during Eid holidays

SHAEHEN MOLLAH, ARUN BIKASH DEY and TAMANNA KHAN

Patients at understaffed government hospitals endured added sufferings during this Eid holidays when most doctors and nurses went on leave.

The Daily Star correspondents witnessed a glimpse of their sufferings, visiting three top government hospitals in Dhaka and Chittagong cities during the three-day Eid vacation from Friday to Sunday.

As outdoor services of all government and non-government hospitals remained closed, pressure at the emergency sections was full, with mostly non-Muslim doctors working in shifts.

In most wards, doctors in the three hospitals last attended patients on Thursday morning before returning on Monday with a few exceptions.

NITOR

Fazlul Haque was brought to the National Institute of Traumatology and Orthopedics Rehabilitation on July 17 with serious accident injuries on his right hand.

Doctors had to amputate his hand, but instead of putting him in a post-operative ward, they sent him to a general ward on the ground floor.

Bangladesh will embark on their 50th Test match at home today when they take on South Africa at the Zahur Ahmed Chowdhury Stadium in Chittagong in the first match of the two-Test series.

Mornings in Chittagong have looked a tad bit depressing with continuous rain and yesterday was no different. However, for a change, rain stopped just before noon, allowing Bangladesh team, who had spent most of the morning training indoors, to engage in a game of football on the lush green outfield towards the end of their session.

EID HOLIDAYMAKING TURNS TRAGIC Road accidents kill 40 in 4 days

STAR REPORT

At least 40 people were killed in road accidents in different districts in the last four days, including the three-day Eid vacation from Friday to Sunday.

Of them, 22 died in Sirajganj alone -- 17 in a single accident in the northern district.

The crashes also left more than a 100 people injured.

During the Eid-ul-Fitr vacation, road accidents saw 67 deaths last year, 52 in 2013, 42 in 2012, 38 in 2011 and 63 in 2010, according to reports in The Daily Star.

On Sunday, two passenger buses of Sabir Paribahan and Azad Paribahan collided head-on at Mulibari crossing on the west side of Bangabandhu Bridge in Kamarkhand upazila in Sirajganj.

The accident happened as the driver of
