

Benicio Del Toro to play villain in 'STAR WARS: EPISODE VIII'?

The forthcoming eighth instalment of the "Star Wars" franchise is reportedly eyeing actor Benicio Del Toro for the antagonist role. Toro, 48, is said to have an offer, although whether a deal can be made remains unclear, according to The Hollywood Reporter. Even though "Star Wars: The Force Awakens" is still more than five months away, casting is beginning for the follow-up chapter, "Star Wars: Episode VIII". The Lucasfilm/Disney movie will be directed by Rian Johnson. Daisy Ridley, Oscar Isaac and John Boyega are expected to return for the movie, as are certain legacy actors (Harrison Ford, Carrie Fisher and Mark Hamill). The release date is May 26, 2017, while the upcoming seventh part "Star Wars: The Force Awakens", directed by J J Abrams, will hit theatres this December 18.

'SOUTHPAW' changed Jake Gyllenhaal inside out

Jake Gyllenhaal underwent not only physical but internal transformation as well after training for sports drama, "Southpaw". The 34-year-old actor went through rigorous training to prepare to play Billy Hope, a boxing champion, attempting to get his life back on track. Terry Claybon, former boxer who trained the "Brokeback Mountain" actor for his role has revealed the actor crossed all physical boundaries to become Billy Hope. "I think that after this movie Jake's about to be one of the biggest stars out there, because of the strength. He's grown a lot. To pull off this boxing movie, he had to put everything into it. He had to put his heart and soul into this," Claybon said. "Gyllenhaal didn't have any days off, training seven days a week for six months. We were working out three hours in the A.M., three hours in the P.M., six hours total a day, seven days a week," he added.

Salman Khan's 'Bajrangi Bhaijaan' breaks 'Kick' record, enters Rs 100 crore with a bang!

Salman Khan's 'Bajrangi Bhaijaan' is breaking all records and is proving to be a tough competition to 'Baahubali'. 'Dabangg' actor Salman is undoubtedly the king of Rs 100 crore and his film 'BB' is raking in the moolah all over. With 'Bajrangi Bhaijaan' entering the 100 crore club in just three days, the movie has set a new record in itself. The movie which was released on Eid has the entire Bollywood going gaga over it and Salman's movie is winner at BO. Trade analyst Taran Adarsh confirmed 'BB' collections on his Twitter handle. "Fri 27.25 cr, Sat 36.60 cr, Sun 38.75 cr. Total: 102.60 cr." Interestingly, Salman has also broken the opening record of his last film 'Kick' which made a staggering RS 25 crore and now 'BB' has raced past 'Kick' collections which minted Rs 26 crore on the first day itself.
