IT'S TRUE!

Irrfan Khan was born as Sahabzade Irrfan Ali Khan in the village of Tonk in Jaipur, in a well off family with royal connections. He has two siblings and his father was a wealthy zamindar who wanted his son to join the family's tyre business. He wanted to be a cricketer but his parents disapproved it. As if by stroke of luck, he got a scholarship to attend National School of Drama in Delhi while he was pursuing MA in Jaipur. While getting admission in NSD, he lied about having past theater experience to get in. He was a final year student at NSD when Mira Nair chose him for a role in "Salaam Bombay".

Dhaka Theatre hosts a four-day festival marking his birthday

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Selim Al Deen, perhaps the most celebrated name of Bangladeshi theatre in the post-Rabindranath era, was born on this day in 1949. The playwright, fondly called Natyacharya, is credited as ushering in a new era in our theatre scene through his plays and extensive research in the field.

Marking his 66th birth anniversary, Dhaka Theatre is hosting a four-day festival-- from August 18 to 21-- at Bangladesh Shilpakala Academy (BSA). The festival features a memorial lecture, award giving ceremony and staging of plays written by the Natyacharya.

The event will begin today with the placing of wreaths at the graveyard of the late playwright at Jahangirnagar University. The next day, Dhaka Theatre will stage a collage of the characters created by the playwright at the National Theatre Hall. On Thursday, Drama and Dramatics Department of JU will stage "Swarnoboyal" at the Experimental Theatre Hall.

On August 21, Selim Al Deen memorial lecture will take place at the Seminar Room of National Theatre Hall, followed by an award giving ceremony. The festival will conclude with the staging of "Nimajon" by Dhaka Theatre at the National Theatre Hall.

Born in Sonagazi Upazila of Feni, Selim Al Deen was attracted to Bangla literature while he was growing up. But later, during his days at Dhaka University, he focused on theatre after coming in contact with Munier Chowdhury.

His plays strive to connect with the roots of traditional theatrical forms. He wrote his first drama in 1968 while still a university student. His first radio play "Biporit Tomoshaye" was broadcast in 1969, and the next year his play aired on Bangladesh Television.

Selim Al deen introduced epic realism in Bengali literature, and several of his works including "Bashon", "Atotayi", "Keramat Mangal", "Hat Hodai" and "Chaka" follow this pattern. He also brought out the folklore tradition called Katha-natya in his dramas "Joiboti Koinnar Mon" and "Hargaj." Selim Al-Deen also revived Mymensingh Geetika, and penned a few plays following the pattern.

To pursue his love of theatre, Selim Al Deen founded the Drama and Dramatics Department at Jahangirnagar University.

He was one of the founding members of Dhaka Theatre that played a vital role in the progressive theatre movement in the post-liberation period.

'Rogue Nation' tops foreign BO

"Mission: Impossible - Rogue Nation" dominated the foreign box office, topping overseas charts for the third consecutive weekend.

The fifth film in Paramount's spy franchise racked up a leading $46.1 million, pushing its global total to $373.4 million. It should pass $400 million next week.

The weekend's two big domestic releases didn't make many waves at foreign multiplexes. North American champ "Straight Outta Compton" doesn't begin its foreign rollout until next week, only opening in Trinidad and other Caribbean Islands this weekend, where it made $15,000. Universal Pictures co-financed the picture with Legendary Entertainment.

Warner Bros.' "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." hoped for a warmer reception overseas after collapsing stateside. The big screen version of the 1960s television show racked up $12 million in 23 markets, including such significant territories as Australia, Russia, the United Kingdom, Spain and Germany.

anticipated problems with 'Phantom' release

Bollywood actress Katrina Kaif, whose upcoming film "Phantom" has been banned in Pakistan, said such is the subject of their upcoming film that they expected problems in its release in Pakistan.

Jamat-ud-Dawah chief Hafiz Saeed has filed a petition in the Lahore High Court seeking a ban on the film's release in Pakistan, alleging that it contains "filthy propaganda" against his country.

"It is logical that Pakistan will have problem with this film. A person is doing wrong and the country is not doing wrong. One of the villains in the film may be from Pakistan but that doesn't mean Pakistan is a villainous country," Katrina said in a recent interview. "The director of the film thinks the country has suffered and not that the country is bad. There is a lot of conflict and upheaval between the two countries so there will be stories on it," Katrina added.
