

SHASHI KAPOOR

Wins Lifetime achievement award

Veteran actor Shashi Kapoor will be honoured with lifetime achievement award at the 6th Jagran Film Festival in Mumbai. Kapoor, 77, has worked in movies like "Deewaar", "Namak Halaal", "Satyam Shivam Sundaram", "Suhaag" apart from doing English film projects including, "The Householder", "Shakespeare Wallah" and "Muhafiz". Manoj Srivastava, Strategic Consultant for Jagran Film Festival, said the committee members of the festival were proud to honour him with this title as he has enriched the industry with his range of contributions as both an actor and a producer. Srivastava also added that the actor has "kindly consented to receive the award." The 6th Jagran Film Festival is currently being held in Mumbai and will culminate on October 4th.

Quantico Series Premiere Offers More Twists Than It Knows What To Do With

If new shows were judged on the amount of twists they could cram into a pilot episode, then Quantico would be the highest-rated series to premiere this fall. In the span of one hour, the FBI thriller throws in twist after twist, as though attempting to fulfil an unspoken quota and earn itself a prize. By establishing how easily the focus can be shifted away from the A-plot of a terrorist attack on U.S. soil and the fugitive status of FBI recruit Alex Parrishhe, the series demonstrates the control it has over the momentum and direction of the storyline. It is, in effect, the writers telling the audience they believe they can keep this going for as long as they want. The risk, then, is that burning through the mystery too quickly, Quantico will have to find another way to define itself. While many programs insist they can prolong their lifespan by slipping into a dull ritual formula, Quantico hints at something less routine. That may spell disaster or it may be this program's ticket to success.

Akshay Kumar's 'Singh-Giri' in 'Singh Is Bliing' motion poster!

All excited to be back in turban mode, actor Akshay Kumar is on his toes for upcoming movie 'Singh Is Bliing'. Released yesterday, the movie is helmed by Prabhudheva and also stars the ravishing Amy Jackson and the gorgeous Lara Dutta. All set to impress his fans with 'Singh-Giri' this time, Akshay took to micro blogging site Twitter to release the poster of the movie.

