Anniversary of Moqsud Ali's death today

CITY DESK
Today is the second death anniversary of eminent educationist Prof Syed Moqsud Ali.

He was the literary editor of Dhaka University Central Students' Union (DUCSU) in 1949. For his immense contributions to publications in political science, he was awarded Sher-e-Bangla Gold Medal in 1996.

He was the chairman of political science and public administration departments and also the dean of social science faculty and chairman of Political Science Association. Among his important publications are "Rashtrabigyan" (Bangla Academy, 1966); Plato's Republic (Translation, Bangla Academy, 1973); Forashi Biplobuttor Rashtrachinta (DU, 1990); Rajniti O Rashtrachintaye Upomohadesh (Bangla Academy, 1988); Markin Shorkarer Ruuprekha (Translation, Ahmed Publishing, Dhaka 1985); Shaatpurusher Itioktha, an academic's autobiographical narrative. His "Aladdin er Cherag" earned him the best Radio Play award in 1949. Prayers were offered at his village mosque in Sujabad (Barisal) and in his Gulshan residence in the capital.

Many Bangladeshis in Indian jail despite completing terms

Reports Times of India
UNB, Dhaka
Scores of Bangladeshi prisoners are languishing in the jails of India's West Bengal state despite completing their terms, the Times of India reported yesterday. The report did not give an exact number but said most of the 320 foreign prisoners in West Bengal prisons, who had already served their sentences, were Bangladeshis. Of the rest of the 320, two are from Nigeria, two from Myanmar, one from Ukraine, and one from Lesotho, it said. According to recent data released by the National Crime Records Bureau of India, nearly 47 percent of the foreign prisoners are lodged in West Bengal prisons and most of them are Bangladeshis and Rohingya Muslims. Of the 6,000-plus foreigners lodged Indian jails, 2,935 are in West Bengal, according to the NCRB data. Among them, 1,113 are convicts and the rest are under-trial. "There are several foreign prisoners, including those from Bangladesh and Myanmar," said Madhurima Dhanuka, consultant of Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative (CHRI), an NGO which fights for the release of the Bangladeshis and Rohingyas.

Shykh Seraj wins Gusi

interactive and eloquent presenter of Mati O Manush of Bangladesh Television, which he continued from 1982 to 1996, and he carries it on through Hridoye Mati O Manush (since 2004) on Channel i. His innovative media approaches helped the country come out of poverty and move further ahead, said the release. The approaches aimed to empower the rural community, give the farmers voice, boost women leadership, contribute to the development of rural infrastructure, advocate for farmers' fundamental rights, engage youths in farming, organise farmers' dialogues where they could raise their voice for their demands in the presence of ministers. His focus now is to find new ways to tackle poverty, especially empower women socially and economically, and also spread the imperative message of food safety and soil health with an in-depth watch on climate change simultaneously. Barry S Gusi, chair of the Gusi Peace Prize Foundation, described Seraj as a "journalist who gave millions of farmers their voice," and as "a simple, hardworking man with a future vision". Dr Gunther Bonn from Austria, former president of Belarus Stanislav Shushkevich, and former prime minister of Portugal Antonio Eanes were among the winners of this year's prize in different categories like scientific research, medicine, international diplomacy, statesmanship.
